Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

The weather outlook today calls for snow flurries, continuing cold temperatures, with winds diminishing. The outlook for tomorrow is not so cold, with mostly cloudy skies and snow flurries. The extended forecast through Wednesday indicates temperatures will average much below normal with only small changes from day to day. High temperature readings will average from 15 to 25 degrees and night time low readings will be from five to ten degrees. Snow flurries are expected throughout the period. Today's high temperature reading will be in the middle teens. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report; high 26 degrees; low 8 degrees; there was a trace of precipitation. The river level was 6.0 feet and rising.

Pool level 1312.31 feet. Upstream temperature 36 degrees. Downstream temperature 36 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 5.11 feet and rising.

WARREN COUNTY

A relatively new organization, pledged to a program for Warren County's aging persons and designed to see that the older citizens have a working and active role in community life, held an organization session last night.

PENNSYLVANIA

Gov. Shafer, Thursday, was accused, by the president of the 80,000 member Pennsylvania State Education Association, of winking on a campaign promise to make Pennsylvania "number one in education."

Issues of state aid for non-public schools and the equally sticky question of how controversial proposals should be handled were two of the items put before delegates to the Constitutional Convention, Thursday.

Gov. Shafer vetoed the controversial legislative pension bill, Thursday just moments after the House and Senate requested him to return it for remedial amendments.

Promoters of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for president open their campaign and say Pennsylvania is the state that can turn the tide for him.

THE NATION

The government authorized Thursday what officials termed the first clearly effective vaccine to prevent mumps, the relatively harmless childhood disease that can cause sterility in adult men.

The Post Office predicts that a $900 million increase in postal rates starting Sunday—the most extensive in history—will cost $22 million to put into effect.

Influenza and other respiratory ailments are taking a heavy toll from the Eastern seaboard all the way to Colorado, with outbreaks reported in more than 30 states and the District of Columbia.

President Johnson picks Chester Bowles, U.S. ambassador to India, to try to negotiate with Cambodia an end to what the administration calls a valuable sanctuary for Communist forces in Vietnam.

THE WORLD

President Johnson is reported trying to sell U.S. Treasury bonds to prosperous European countries to counter the outflow of gold and dollars spent by American troops in Europe.

About 150 Congolese youths carrying anti-American banners charged into Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's motorcade Thursday and one youth aimed a kick at Humphrey's car.

Chances that Dr. Philip Blaiberg will reject his new heart are termed "very remote" as his condition continues to improve. The dentist's lawyers have announced that he and his wife will not keep for personal use any money they are due to receive under a contract signed with NBC.

Warren Area High School's wrestling team starts its Section II schedule tonight by hosting Franklin. The Knights have a veteran team, including three undefeated matmen. Dragon co-captain Doug Sorensen will be out of the line-up tonight due to illness. Page 6.

An official of the World Boxing Association rapped the billing of the Joe Frazier-Buster Mathis heavyweight fight as a title bout. Recognition of the fight, he said, "only prove adverse to what is best for boxing." Page 7.

The South hopes to rise again in Saturday's 19th annual Senior Bowl All-Star football game at Mobile, Alabama. Southern teams have won only one of nine post-season bowl and all-star games this winter. Page 7.

Negro members of the St. Louis Cardinals football team confirmed a report of dissension between players and coaches but said problems had not reached the boiling point. Page 7.

INITIATES FORMAL STEPS

A new organization, as yet not officially named but dedicated to a productive program and center for the aged of Warren County, met last night to initiate formal steps to incorporate and study possible sites and funding. Among those working since July to create interest and eye the feasibility of such a project were, left, Dr. Roger Mesmer, of Warren State Hospital staff and newly elected president of the board of directors and Joseph H. DeFrees, who will serve as consultant to the building site committee. (Photo by Mahan)

Group to Help County's Aged Holds Organization Meeting

By BETTY RICE

A relatively new organization pledged to a program for Warren County's aging persons and designed to see that the older citizens have a working and active role in the life of the community held an organization session last night.

For the purposes of incorporation as a non-profit group, the Board of Directors may become known as Experience, Inc., of Warren or Age Center of Warren, Inc., once the eligibility of the name is determined by Attorney John Eberly, who will draw articles of incorporation.

tion and with Dr. Roger Mesmer and Donald Taft outline a set of basic by-laws.

Some of the board members have been working since July to explore the possibility of creating in Warren borough a center for older people—a place to meet and stay through the day, visit with friends, enjoy a meal, have medical supervision and then return to their regular places of residence.

By unanimous vote, Dr. Mesmer was elected president of the board, who explained that models of such centers are largely abroad, the early exemplary facilities originating in Holland and later transferring to England. In this country, such centers are seeing success in Boston, Philadelphia and Buffalo.

Objectives of the organization would serve the entire older community of the borough and entire county on a "self-help" basis, not with the idea of older persons coming and being passively served.

Dr. Mesmer said that already industry has indicated some interest in the proposed program and that a roster of volunteers has already been developed. The project, he added, could help many older citizens become independent again.

Part-time work for the aging is considered and inclusion with the Golden Age Society could, through a center, provide a meeting place and become an integral part of a program that could be much broader. "A place of their own," Mesmer emphasized, "could be important."

LBJ Trying to Sell Bonds To European Countries

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — President Johnson is trying to sell U.S. Treasury bonds to prosperous West European countries to counter the outflow of gold and dollars spent by American troops in Europe, authoritative sources said Thursday.

This is one of the forms of cooperation in defense of the dollar that Nicholas Katzenbach, undersecretary of state, is seeking on his tour of Western Europe. He visited Brussels, headquarters of the European Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Thursday. Then he went to The Hague, capital of Holland, and on to Rome. He also will visit Paris.

The United States has an outflow of $1.1 billion a year because of its troops stationed in the Common Market countries: West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Since President Charles de Gaulle put NATO's main military headquarters out of France last year there have been no important American units stationed there. But France still belongs to NATO and is protected by U.S. forces in neighboring lands.

The six Common Market countries are expected to run a surplus of $4 billion in 1967 and 1968 on all their dealings with the United States.

In Washington's view the windfall of dollars from American military spending ought to be neutralized in some way. For many years the bulk of it, spent on and by U.S. troops in West Germany, was offset by West German arms buying in the United States.

But Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger declined to make the same agreements as his predecessors Konrad Adenauer and Ludwig Erhard. So the United States, in talks with Britain and West Germany, decided to pull out 35,000 troops and accept a West German purchase of $500 million in medium-term U.S. Treasury bonds. These will have to be redeemed some day but at least they prevent additional gold and dollars being shipped abroad for the present.

The firm said it is ready to begin distributing more than one million doses by next Monday. It said additional shipments will be made in the next few months to meet anticipated demands.

Health Service officials said the new, single-injection vaccine will give 95 to 100 per cent immunity for at least a year and perhaps for a lifetime. Since the 1950s, the only vaccine available provided about 50 per cent immunity for a matter of months and usually not more than a year.

Dr. Williams H. Stewart, the surgeon general, said, however, that further tests are needed to determine how long the new vaccine will provide immunity. For this reason, he said, it should be given to children approaching adolescence, to adolescents and to adults, especially adult men but not to little children. Dr. Stewart explained that if children were vaccinated and immunity did not last, the youngsters would be susceptible to mumps during the danger periods of adolescence and young adulthood.

The two groups met at the courthouse to decide between two proposals for the location of an interchange between Route 62 and the bypass. The one calling for the extension of Market st. has been previously approved, and is presently the subject of an engineering study. The other proposal was recent-

LBJ Picks Bowles To Negotiate With Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Chester Bowles will go to Cambodia soon to seek a way to deny Vietnamese Communists a Cambodian sanctuary—hopefully without sending in U.S. troops to do the job.

President Johnson announced Thursday in Texas that Bowles, the American ambassador to India, will represent him in talks at Phnom Penh with Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state.

The meeting was suggested last week by Sihanouk who broke relations with the United States in 1965, asserting that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was plotting against him. Since then he frequently has criticized the American role in Vietnam and denied that the North Vietnamese or the Viet Cong were using Cambodia as a sanctuary.

But last week Sihanouk acknowledged, in effect, that Cambodia was being used to some extent as a refuge by Communists withdrawing from engagements with U.S. forces along the border between Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Reversing an earlier position, Sihanouk said he would not attack U.S. forces who might move into Cambodian territory in hot pursuit of fleeing Communist units. And he said he would welcome a visit by a representative of President Johnson to discuss the problem.

Bowles interrupted a vacation in South India to hurry back to New Delhi for a conference with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on the Cambodian question. Bowles is to go to Phnom Penh in a few days.

India, Canada and Poland are members of the International Control Commission set up under the Geneva agreements of 1954 which was intended to neutralize and stabilize the states making up what once was French Indo-China.

The ICC, among other things, is charged with protecting Cambodia's neutrality, but it has been almost wholly ineffective in policing the nation's borders.

Sihanouk has suggested the strengthening of ICC capabilities for patrolling the border and Bowles is expected to assure him anew that the United States—although not a signatory of the Geneva agreement—is prepared to provide helicopters, trucks and other transportation and communications equipment to enable the ICC to keep the border area under close surveillance.

This would be in line with the American desire to avoid sending troops into Cambodia to prevent vent use of its territory as a haven where Communist units can rest and regroup without the threat of ground or air attack by U.S. forces.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been doing just this for years, according to U.S. officials who say that in recent months and weeks the problem has grown in scope and gravity.

U.S. Forces Hammer North Viet Regiments

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes, taking full advantage of continuing good weather, returned Thursday to the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial corridor with seven more raids, including a pair that straddled the North Vietnamese capital.

A U.S. spokesman said a flight of Navy pilots winging in from the carrier Oriskany hit the Hanoi railroad and highway bridge three miles north of the city while other Oriskany planes slammed the Phu Thi highway ferry 12 miles southeast of the capital.

Five other raids were carried out within 24 miles of Hanoi and the port city of Haiphong.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command announced Friday that a second plane, an Air Force F105, was shot down Wednesday by a Russian-designed MIG21. The Command had reported earlier the loss of a Navy A4 Skyhawk, downed by ground fire, during Wednesday's raids. The pilots of both planes were reported missing.

The two American losses made the score even for that day. Air Force F4 Phantom crews reported shooting down two older-model MIG17s in dog-fights over Hanoi.

U.S. artillery, mortars and bombers hammered Thursday at scattered elements of two North Vietnamese regiments in the rice-rich Que Son Valley to cap a victory won in part by advance knowledge of the enemy's battle plan.

Eight-engine B52 Stratofortresses loosed tons of explosives on a mountain range overlooking the valley, 350 miles northeast of Saigon, in an attempt to catch Red regulars either withdrawing from frustrated attacks on three base camps of the U.S. Americal Division or moving in to try again.

Officers said American forces killed at least 281 of the enemy in repulsing a Red offensive launched early Wednesday against the camps—Landing Zones Ross, Leslie and West—in the valley, about 20 miles south of Da Nang.

Congolese Youths Charge Humphrey's Motorcade

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — About 150 Congolese youths carrying anti-American banners charged into Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's motorcade Thursday and one youth aimed a kick at Humphrey's car.

The 28-car motorcade slowed, but then continued on into the city and the youths tore up an American flag after the cars passed.

The incident occurred as Humphrey entered Kinshasa from the airport on his arrival in the Congo on a nine-nation African tour. It was the first anti-American demonstration Humphrey has faced on the tour.

He leaves for Zambia Friday after meeting with President Joseph D. Mobutu.

The youths had massed at a monument to Patrice Lumumba, onetime premier of the Congo who was slain in 1961.

When the motorcade approached the youths crowded the road and thumped on some of the cars. The vehicle carrying Mrs. Humphrey was not disturbed.

A spokesman for Humphrey's party said they had been warned of the demonstration, but the vice president decided not to have it prevented. Three Jeeps carrying soldiers followed Humphrey's car but the soldiers did not leave their vehicles.

The Lumumba monument is at the city's entrance. Along the rest of the route, most onlookers quietly watched the motorcade without waving.

In a brief statement on his arrival from Accra, Ghana, Humphrey told Congolese dignitaries: "The American people will be among your strongest admirers as the Congo grows and prospers, proud of our mutual friendship and our mutual belief in...the social justice of mankind."

Flu Takes Heavy Toll Through East, Midwest

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Influenza and other respiratory ailments have taken a heavy toll from the Eastern Seaboard all the way to Colorado, with outbreaks reported in more than 30 states and the District of Columbia.

Reports reaching the National Communicable Disease Center show that Asian flu has been documented with laboratory tests in at least 14 states.

These include Michigan, Florida, New Jersey, Alabama, New York, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Georgia, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Tennessee and Connecticut.

However, an Associated Press survey Thursday showed that state health officials in at least two other states—Texas and Pennsylvania—reported that the Asian flu virus has been identified. Laboratory tests are sometimes slow in reaching the NCDC, authorities say, and for that reason documentation of the virus may sometimes be reported a week or more after it has actually been identified.

Nevertheless, the seriousness of outbreaks in some areas became evident this week as children began to return to school after the holidays.

School absenteeism in Louisiana and Texas was especially high, and some schools in these states have been closed.

Louisiana officials say they have an epidemic in the southern portion of the state.

Reports reaching the NCDC indicate outbreaks of what probably is Asian flu in Ohio, Maryland, Mississippi, Arkansas, Nebraska, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and the District of Columbia.

Stamp Rate Change Will Cost $22 Million to Put into Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Post Office Department officials predicted Thursday that the $900-million increase in postal rates starting Sunday—the most extensive rate change in history—will cost it about $22 million to put into effect.

Officials stressed, however, that the $22-million figure is strictly an estimate and includes a variety of costs ranging from printing new posters and forms and resetting stamp vending machines to putting into effect new regulations against mailing sexually provocative advertising.

The increases become effective on mail postmarked after midnight Saturday. The increase will raise the cost of mailing a regular first-class letter from 5 to 6 cents. Airmail letters go from 8 to 10 cents; postal cards from 4 to 5 cents; airmail cards from 6 to 8 cents.

The post office expects the increase to go into effect without any hitches. To make sure, it has authorized the use of extra manpower if needed, has printed about 200,000 posters and signs to tell the public about it, and has bombarded its 32,000 postmasters with a variety of instructions, rate schedules, special bulletins, news releases and charts.

Heart Transplant Patient Progressing Very Well

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Christiaan Barnard said Thursday heart transplant patient Philip Blaiberg is "progressing extremely well" but there were signs his body might be reacting against the new heart.

The surgeon vowed not "to make the same mistake" he said might have been made in the case of Louis Washkansky by treating him too quickly to overcome the body's natural tendency to reject foreign tissue.

Barnard told newsmen the 58-year-old retired dentist showed the same signs doctors had interpreted as rejection of the new heart by Washkansky, the first man to receive a human heart transplant.

Barnard has indicated intense antirejection treatment may have weakened Washkansky's resistance to infection and contributed to his death by pneumonia 18 days after the historic transplant of last Dec. 30.

Barnard said Blaiberg's condition probably was better than Washkansky's at the same stage. "His circulation is very adequate and his organs which had been affected by his bad heart are now returning to normal," he said.

The medical superintendent at Groote Schuur Hospital said the chances were "very remote" that Blaiberg's body would reject the heart.

Lawyers for the Blaibergs, meanwhile, said they would share money they are due to receive under a contract they

The department also has directed that all first-class and airmail letters mailed with inadequate postage shall be forwarded postage due.

signed last week with the National Broadcasting Co. of New York for television rights.

The lawyers had first announced that the Blaibergs would not keep any of the money for "personal needs." A spokesman for the lawyers said later the Blaibergs would, however, share in the money, with undetermined percentages going to those involved in the operation.

OUTLINES PROPOSAL

Richard Norton (standing) engineering consultant, outlines his proposal for centralization of sewage systems in Warren county. Norton spoke to various county and municipal officials at an informal work session Thursday evening at the courthouse. He gave what he said was a very rough, preliminary cost estimate of a possible sewage system for the Starbrick-to-Youngsville area; that estimate was $1.25 million. He gave no overall cost estimates for other parts of his proposal — those dealing with areas north and southeast of Warren. The possibility of how much federal and state aid could be counted on was central to the discussion. A figure of 60 per cent was cited as probable, but no definite conclusions were reached. (Photo by Mahan)

Plan for Central Sewage System Outlined by Engineering Consultant

A proposal for centralization of sewage systems west, north and southeast of Warren was outlined Thursday night at the courthouse.

Richard Norton, engineering consultant, spoke to various county and municipal officials, including all three county commissioners. He outlined a plan, prepared for the county planning commission, of how sewage systems could be developed in the future.

His plan, he said, emphasized spreading the cost of sewage treatment over the greatest possible base. It would also tend to force development of vacant land, help attract industry, and eliminate duplication of effort, he said.

Municipal officials are interested in a county sewage plan since they must, under a new state law, submit to the state a plan for the future development of their sewage systems. The state allows them to do this by simply approving a county plan, and this is the course most municipalities in Warren County are expected to take.

Norton's presentation last night was intended to give municipal officials a look at the Warren County sewage plan as it has been developed so far. The final version is to be presented to the county planning commission Jan. 18.

Youngsville officials are particularly interested in the county plan, since it conflicts with their own plans for a new sewage treatment plant in Youngsville. Under the county plan, Youngsville's sewage would be treated at a new plant in the Buckaloons area.

It appeared Thursday night that Youngsville would go ahead with its own plans, since no definite cost figures or timetable on the county plan were given. Norton did give what he said was a very rough prelimcheckerboard. Wind increases the loss of heat by reducing the thin layer of warm air next to the skin, says the chart.

In the Twin Cities it was -19 at 9 a.m. with a northwest wind whipping in at 21 m.p.h. That meant the fellow bucking the wind from his transportation to the office felt a blast of -68, according to the chart.

Ways of beating the cold were numerous in northern Minnesota. Engine warming devices plugged into the house current got the car going. Fuel oil in outside tanks for home heating systems congealed in the cold, flowed under warmth from heating wires wrapped around lines.

School buses ran a little late in the Warroad area because drivers stopped to pick up children who normally walk. Kids at the regular stops didn't have to wait long, however.

Rural mothers, once their children were aboard, called the neighbor down the road to let her know they're next. Some motorists whose cars started on the first turn found a problem—steering. Front wheels, grease congealed, refused to turn on slippery surfaces and went along like sled runners until a dry stretch was reached.

Con Con Considers Two Sticky Questions

HARRISBURG (AP) — The thorny issue of state aid for non-public schools and the equally sticky question of how controversial proposals should be handled were put before the Constitutional Convention Thursday.

The related issues could spark a floor fight Friday, the last day delegates may submit revision proposals from the floor.

The nonpublic school aid plan was submitted by German Quiles, a Philadelphia delegate, who had announced three weeks ago that he would introduce such a proposal.

Quiles' proposal would amend the Constitution to empower the General Assembly to 'levy taxes and make appropriations for the maintenance and support of non-public schools to serve the educational needs of the commonwealth.'

Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick, convention president, asked for a legal opinion on whether the proposal is within the convention's limited jurisdiction.

Marvin Cominsky of Philadelphia, the convention's chief legal adviser, said a written opinion on the matter would be ready by Friday.

Under convention rules, Broderick is empowered to reject any proposal that he and his legal advisers determine is not within the four specific areas the convention may consider.

Broderick, who has used this veto power eight times, was challenged for the first time Thursday when he rejected three proposals.

Pittsburgh delegate Joseph L. Cosetti appealed a ruling rejecting his proposal that would have given the governor power to limit state borrowing authorized by the legislature.

Cosetti complained that Broderick and his legal aides were "too narrow" in their interpretation of the convention's jurisdiction.

Another Philadelphia delegate, Samuel Rappaport, supported Cosetti's position.

"There has been strong sentiment expressed that we were summoned into session by the people, and because of that, we have the plenary power to rewrite the entire Constitution," Rappaport said. "I would like to see all proposals submitted by our learned delegates put into printed form, and brought before his body."

An opposing view was offered, however, by delegate Harold Goldman of Mount Lebanon, who argued that it would not be proper or possible to consider all proposals offered from the floor.

"Regardless of what our inherent powers may be," Goldman said, "the people have delegated to us certain specific responsibilities. We are extremely limited and we must define our role."

A showdown on the issue was avoided when it was decided to put off until Monday a vote on Cosetti's appeal.

The other proposals rejected by Broderick would have stopped the legislative practice of voting absent members on tax and financial bills and given Pennsylvania cities self-government powers.

Quiles' nonpublic school aid proposal was among 27 introduced from the floor Thursday, bringing to 121 the total submitted since the convention opened last Dec. 1.

Others would: — Put a 5 per cent ceiling on the state sales tax and completely exempt food, clothing and medication.

— Prohibit the legislature from increasing salaries and other benefits for any elected official unless approved by the voters.

— Create the post of public defender as a county officer.

— Require public bidding on authority bonds authorized by the legislature.

— Authorize counties to adopt home rule charters.

— Establish separate criminal courts in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Friday is the last day delegates may submit proposals from the floor.

Donald Taft, director of FIND, a project under the Office of Economic Opportunity, stated that in talking with members of the Golden Age Society, several of whom are serving as community aides under FIND, are looking for something to do — some meaningful work.

The Rev. Lynn Bergman, Norman Matthews and Mrs. Doris Betts were appointed a special committee to explore site possibilities and possible procedures for financing.

When the actual center is in operation, the board felt those using the facility would probably come up with its actual name.

The project as eyed would be self-sustaining but hopefully profit making in the long run.

Present at last night's two hour meeting were Mesmer, Mrs. Mary Helen Johnson, Mrs. Mary Schorman, Eberly, Don Neal, Mrs. Betts, Taft, Matthews, James Krider, Mr. Bergman, Dr. Kilar McDonald, DeFrees, Dr. Kilar McDonald.

The board will meet in adjourned session at 8 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 11 at Allegheny Valve Co.

Country School Teacher Rides Motorized Sled

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—Country schoolteacher Pansy Schroeder returned to teach her four students Thursday—astride a motorized sled over a bitterly cold 12 miles of snowdrifts up to eight feet deep.

"It was my last chance" this winter to return to the one-room school which also serves as her home, said the 58-year-old Miss Schroeder. Now that she's there, she will stay put for the rest of the winter.

She had been on a holiday visit in Great Falls, and in the interim snow blocked roads to her Calvert School, about 35 miles south of here. More snow and 65-mile-an-hour winds were predicted Thursday.

The tiny student body, which uses horses and snowmobiles regularly in the winter to travel the half-mile from home to class, was back at school Thursday. The two boys and two girls spent the holiday with their families, isolated by snow.

They are third grader Jeffery Good, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Good, and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Humphreys, Teresa, 9, a fourth grader; Steven, 10, a fifth grader, and Melinda, 12, who is in the seventh.

The ride, Miss Schroeder's first on the belt-treaded over-the-snow contraption, "was thrilling," she said, but I never thought it would be so rough.

And, she added, "I'd do it again if it was the only way." Her chauffeur on the journey was Loren W. Gewalt, Great Falls

Two New Proposals Possible

BOSTON (AP) — The Johnson administration will go to Congress soon with two new proposals for the nation's nuclear defense system, the Christian Science Monitor said Thursday in a copyrighted article.

Involved is developing and testing a new type missile that could house most of the country's strategic missiles, and a new generation of missile-carrying nuclear submarines that could succeed the Polaris fleet if needed.

The story out of Washington says initial allocations for both programs will be in the administration's budget for fiscal 1969. It says the future strategic moves on the part of the Soviets will determine whether the United States builds the silos or submarines.

The article says that under present plans, research and development for the silos would cost about $200 million during the next three to four years.

The silos would be larger than Minuteman silos and would be designed to hold either Minuteman or more advanced missiles.

Pentagon analysts think, according to the article, that placing present missiles in the new silos would be almost as good as using new missiles in them.

Plans for the other program involve efforts at designing a new type submarine with missiles, "of much greater range than the present Polaris or up coming Poseidon," it says.

The article says the most advanced Polaris missile has a range of about 2,375 miles, and the new missiles could travel 3,000 miles.

Alarm System Developed For Mine Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of Mines has developed an alarm system small enough to be worn or carried, to warn workmen in a confined space when the oxygen level becomes dangerously low, the Interior Department announced Thursday.

The device, developed for use in coal mines, might also be used by workers in other mines, in tunnels, industrial tanks, fire areas, or any other situation where there is a danger of oxygen deficiency.

The bureau is working to make the device even smaller, so that it could be mounted on a miner's protective helmet.

About the size of a large flashlight and powered by a four volt battery, the warning device produces a pulsed sound when the oxygen level drops below normal and a continuous tone when it reaches a dangerously low level.

White House Is Accused Of Managing the News

(c) N. Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Two of the nation's best known television newsmen disagreed Thursday whether the White House practices news management.

Chet Huntley of the National Broadcasting Company contended that it was a "hackneyed phrase" to which he did not subscribe. But Walter Cronkite of the Columbia Broadcasting System said there was an effort by the White House to manage the news and labeled this "a frightful problem."

They commented on the issue during a panel discussion sponsored by the International Radio and Television Society.

Huntley said that "I never did subscribe to it because it seems to me and always has that if we

Israeli Leader

Here for Talks

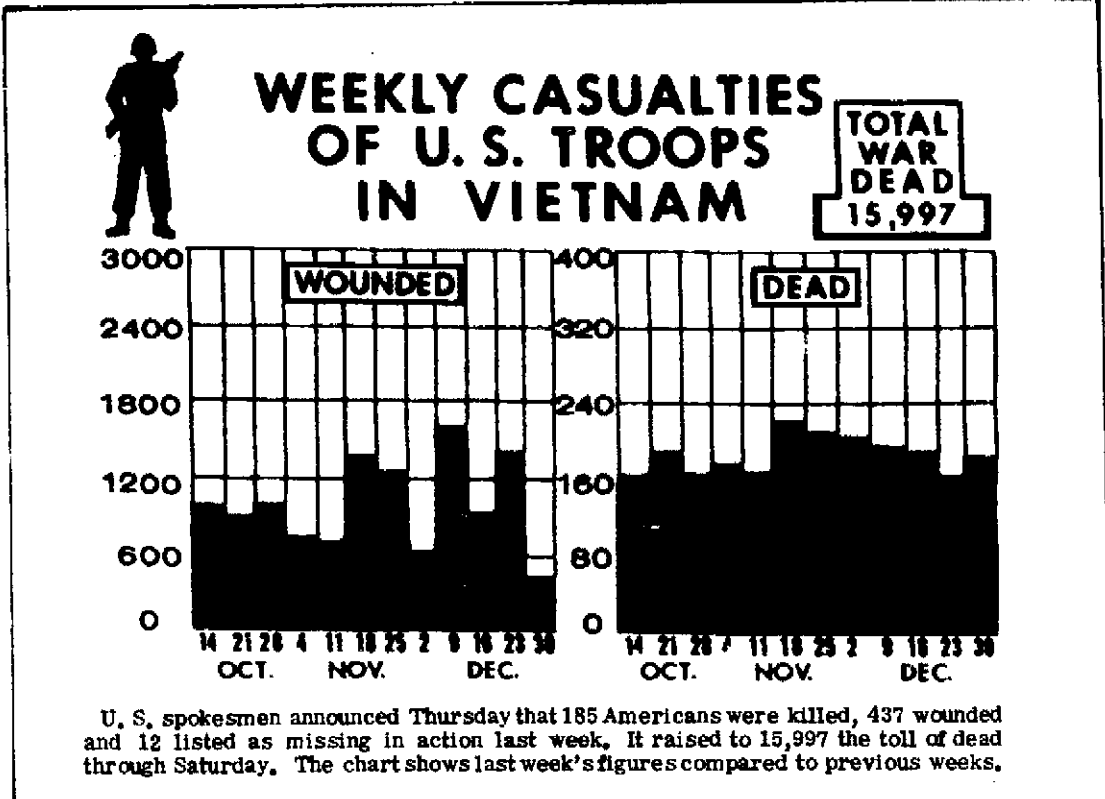

NEW YORK (AP) — Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel arrived in the United States on Thursday and headed for talks with President Johnson at the Texas White House on his nation's desire for U.S. arms.

Israel, hoping to offset what it calls "tremendous Soviet arms supplies" to Arab nations in the Middle East, reportedly is interested in obtaining American jet fighter-bombers.

U.S. Wondering Whether New Talk Raises Hopes for Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Thursday the United States is trying to determine whether the new talk from North Vietnam raises possibilities for a peaceful settlement of the war.

Mass Transit Package Is Ready for Signing

HARRISBURG (AP) — The legislature put the finishing touches on the Shafer Administration's mass transit package Thursday and sent it to Gov. Shafer for his signature.

The proposal would create a new state authority to borrow up to $30 million for mass transit programs anywhere in the state.

One bill would set up the Pennsylvania Transportation Assistance Authority, which could sell up to $30 million in bonds for large mass transit programs.

Another measure would give the Community Affairs Department power to administer a coordinated mass transit program, including approval of projects proposed by the authority.

These two bills were given final legislative approval in the Senate.

A third bill to appropriate $8.9 million in state grants for mass transit purposes gained final legislative approval in the House. The Community Affairs Department would be authorized to administer the grants.

The Senate also approved resolutions to:

— Establish a five-member Senate committee to investigate against peace negotiations, Rusk told a news conference.

But he refused to rule out the possibility of a genuine peace feeler from the Reds, saying: "It would be premature for me to brush this aside as purely a propaganda play."

The U.S. foreign service chief suggested too that Hanoi could make its interest in peace a lot clearer by accompanying its words with deeds to scale down the fighting.

The North Vietnamese talk began with their foreign minister, Nguyen Duy Trinh, who said on Dec. 30 that Hanoi "will hold talks" if the United States stops bombing the North and halts other acts of war.

Previously North Vietnam had been saying only that discussions "could" follow a cessation of the U.S. air raids.

Rusk declared the U.S. position remains as President Johnson put it in a San Antonio speech last Sept. 29:

"The United States is willing to stop all aerial and naval bombardment of North Vietnam when this will lead promptly to productive discussions. We, of course, assume that while discussions proceed, North Vietnam would not take advantage of the bombing cessation or limitation."

Secretary Rusk said Ambassador Chester Bowles, whom Johnson is sending to Phnom Penh to repair U.S. relations with Cambodia, is not expected to meet with Viet Cong or North Vietnamese representatives there.

The United States has no present intention of sending its forces from South Vietnam across the Cambodian border in hot pursuit of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units, Rusk said.

N.H. Primary Will Have New Candidate

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The presidential primary in New Hampshire will have a new candidate on the campaign trail — Chief Burning Wood of the American Indian party.

"Indian Power" is his campaign motto and "Give the land back to the Indians" is his campaign platform.

"The white man has ruined the land, he has polluted it and put concrete pavement over it," he declared. "Only the Indian knows how to care for the land," said the chief who is descended from the Delaware Tribe.

In addition to Indians, his main voting strength will be drawn from hippies, the chief said Thursday as he announced his candidacy and intentions to begin a handshaking tour of New Hampshire in two weeks.

"The hippies dig the Indians," he said, "and besides, Chief Thunderbird of the Shoshone Tribe made them blood brothers last summer." At that time the American Indian party was founded, he said.

When not on the campaign trail, he sells political buttons and related novelty items, and uses his Christian name Austin Burton.

University Of the Air Continuing

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of the Air, which conducts college classes on television while students watch at home, will begin its second semester throughout the state Jan. 27, it was announced Thursday.

For any TV course they successfully complete, students receive credit at participating colleges where they are enrolled. But they must take an examination after the TV course and pay a tuition charge.

Anyone can watch and learn for free, however, without college credit.

The University of the Air is a joint program of the State University and City University of New York. About 3,000 persons were registered throughout the state for last fall's semester, and nearly half were between 30 to 50 years old.

The courses are broadcast Saturdays and selected weekdays on Channel 13 in New York City; 17 in Schenectady; 24 in Syracuse; 21 in Rochester; and 17 in Buffalo. Some courses also are presented on Channel 31, New York City, and Channel 40, Binghamton.

Lawmakers Fear They Can't Pass Another Pension Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The pension bill vetoed Thursday by Gov. Shafer started out in the General Assembly last March merely as a measure to correct inequities in the computation of legislative retirement.

Before it met its fate, amendments inserted by the House State Government Committee had made it such a cause celebre that lawmakers fear it will be impossible to pass another corrective bill this year.

Since 1965, when the legislators raised their pay by $1,200, they have been paying into the retirement fund on the basis of a $7,200 salary.

But their retirement benefits still were calculated on their old salary base of $6,000, since no adjustment had been made at the time in the pension law.

What the House committee did was insert an amendment to give the 16 party officers of the General Assembly the same unlimited retirement potential now enjoyed by the House Speaker and the Senate President Pro Tempore.

The latter two constitutional officers still will enjoy that open retirement, despite the Shafer veto. All other legislators, regardless of years of service, are limited to a maximum pension of $12,000.

To sweeten the leadership's pension base, another bill was amended to provide the 16 party officers with additional compensation for the responsibilities of their positions.

The extra pay, which was to have been trimmed from their contingency accounts (not calculated in retirement), would automatically raise the leaders' retirement base.

Shafer has until Jan. 21 either to sign or to veto this bill, part of an over-all legislative employment salary increase, or it will

Approve $50,000 For Minor Offices

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate sent to Gov. Shafer a bill Thursday to provide an additional $50,000 each to the minority Democratic offices in the House and Senate. The vote was 45-4.

The measure, approved by the House last month, also provides $7,500 in contingent expenses to the administrator for the House minority staff, a new item.

This was accomplished by amendment of the billion-dollar general appropriations bill Shafer had signed into law in August.

The original amount in that bill was $75,000 each for the legislative minority offices.

become law without his signature.

Legislators contribute to the retirement fund at a rate 3-3/4 times the actuarial rate established for their age group. (State employees contribute at the flat actuarial rate.)

Since they contribute at an accelerated rate, the lawmakers draw pension benefits under the same terms—3-3/4 times the 2 per cent of salary rate applicable to state employees, or 7 1/2 per cent.

For example, a five-term legislator at age 50 would receive 7 1/2 per cent of his base salary ($6,000 under present law) times his years of service (10) below for a total retirement of $4,500.

To be eligible for full retirement benefits, present law states that a legislator must have turned age 50. Legislators retiring under age 50 must have served at least eight years to qualify for partial benefits. Anyone who did not meet either of the two requirements would receive merely what he contributed to the fund.

The bill Shafer vetoed would have permitted full benefits at age 50, or 20 year's service. It also would have reduced the time for partial benefits from eight years to six years.

Where the leaders stood to gain from the measure was in their new salary scale. The pension bill would have permitted their retirement to be computed at the higher salary after only two years in that post.

The current pension base is figured on the average salary over a five-year period.

Australian Quint Dies Thursday

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — The Roger Brahmans lost one of their quintuplets Thursday. Geoffrey Roger Braham, last-born of the 4-day-old infants, died at the Brisbane Women's Hospital.

There was no immediate announcement of the cause of death, which came soon after the hospital's morning bulletin had reported all five in satisfactory condition.

The quint was born prematurely Sunday to Patricia Braham, 36. Her husband Roger, 34, is a country lawyer. They have four other children.

Because the last two of their other children were twins, Braham had taken out insurance with Lloyds of London against a multiple birth.

Inopportune Time

The state Highway Department left a bad taste in the mouths of many Warren motorists Wednesday when they picked the five o'clock rush hour to create a one-lane traffic situation at the head of Market street.

The reason was justifiable, but the timing was certainly "way" off. The bend at the head of Market street in the vicinity across from Dyke's Service Station has always been a hazardous situation in the winter time when snow melts on the bank and runs onto the highway

Political Science a Science?

There are thousands of young men majoring in political science who will be in shock by November. They will see practically no relationship between what they study and what this country practices. Once, political science was a noble profession and, in some dictionaries, is referred to as an art.

Political science is an exercise in the use of power. Ages ago, the noblest men of the realm vied for power, not to enrich themselves, but to enrich their country and the people. They enunciated their individual credos in town squares and from temple steps.

In America, politics was always cheap. Benjamin Franklin and George Washington lent themselves to wily schemes to replace what the people desired—a confederation of equal and separate states—with a Republic and a central government. They did it because they were sure they knew, better than the people, what was good for all.

The use of power was transmuted to the abuse of power. Intelligent patriots with some exceptions, turned away from politics and the void was filled by men who were less noble than practical. Lincoln had his Blairs; Harding had Harry Daugherty and Albert Fall; McKinley had Mark Hanna; FDR had Tammany, Hague and Jim Curley; Truman had Pendergast and Crump—even the losers were surrounded by men of venality.

As an edifice of democracy,

Rusk on a 'Durable Peace'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—In his news conference this week, Secretary of State Rusk seemed to place considerable emphasis, not only on finding a way to end the war in Vietnam, but on achieving a "durable" peace in all of Southeast Asia.

He said nothing this time about getting a peace and then withdrawing U.S. forces and dismantling U.S. bases in Vietnam within six months after the achievement of that peace, but stated the primary war aim as something much larger: the creation of a situation in which the nations concerned would be secure from violence and external harassment.

The distinction between ending the war and producing a "durable" peace in the entire area is fundamental, for it is comparatively easy to imagine a day when American power brings the war under control, while it is hard to imagine a "durable" peace in Southeast Asia without keeping substantial American troops there indefinitely.

In 1919, here in New York, President Wilson stated U.S. war aims in terms not so different from Rusk.

"We accepted the issues of the war as facts . . ." Wilson said, "and we can accept no outcome which does not squarely meet and settle them." He then defined the issues in terms very similar to Rusk's.

Shall the military power of any nation or group of nations, Wilson asked, be suffered to determine the fortunes of peoples over whom they have no right to rule . . . ?

Shall strong nations be free to wrong weak nations and make them subject to their purpose and interest?

Shall peoples be ruled and dominated, even in their own internal affairs, by arbitrary and irresponsible force or by their own will and choice?

Shall there be a common standard of right and privilege for all peoples and nations or shall the strong do as they will and the weak suffer without redress?

Rusk is clearly applying these same Wilsonian principles to Vietnam. He is seeking the same "durable" peace and fighting a war "to end wars" in Southeast Asia, but there are two fundamental differences between the war Wilson was talking about and the war Rusk is talking about.

There was no doubt in 1919

--usually building up a layer of ice.

But why jam southbound traffic back through Venturatown and northbound traffic back to Pennsylvania avenue, not to mention the east and west arteries.

The situation at the head of Market street has been there all week, and was there all day Wednesday. There is a light traffic period every morning and every afternoon. Why wasn't the clearing project conducted then?

year by Mobil and Ford. Five other oil companies have since joined the program.

One goal of the program is a gasoline automobile with hydrocarbon exhaust emissions of only 65 parts a million parts, or about half that set as the maximum for 1970 cars by California.

A step in the right direction.

SYLVIA PORTER

This a Good Time To Buy?

Q. Is this a good time for you to buy?

A. It's about as good a time as you'll see for a long, long while. It's a particularly good time for you to buy:

If you're in the market for women's clothes or furniture this month or if you will be in the market for men's clothes or used cars next month. In the months of January-February, prices for these widely diverse items usually hit their seasonal lows. By buying basic clothing styles and apparel items which you always can use and which do not change from year to year, you can save as much as 30-50 per cent during these off-season weeks. By taking advantage of the traditional January furniture clearances to buy good quality pieces, you can improve your whole budget outlook. By buying your used car in February—when the peak driving season is a memory and trade-ins for the 1968 models have begun to accumulate in dealers' hands—you can pick up a bargain.

If you can find and use the "real" post-Christmas sales. Most of the great New York stores with which I have accounts have been running post-Christmas sales in the past several days. I have picked up several winter items my family needed—and for us, the winter is just beginning—at extraordinary markdowns.

If you are in a position to schedule an off-season vacation. In many attractive areas, the off-season vacation rates for hotels, motels, transportation and all the rest are now in force. If you can manage it, why not enjoy and save too?

Of course, prices today are higher than they were a year ago today, or two, five or 10 years ago. The bargains I'm discussing are comparative—but similarly, the likelihood is that prices now are lower than they will be a year from now, or two, five or 10 years from now. It is within this framework that you should weigh the following fundamental facts and probabilities.

First, the long-term trend of living costs is upward and no development is in sight to reverse it. Since 1933, when the global depression was bottoming out, prices have risen every year, with only four exceptions. The retreats in these four years were insignificant, did no more than dent the strong upward move. The dollar which bought 100¢ of goods in services in 1939 will buy only 41¢ worth now; the dollar which was worth 100¢ in the marketplace in 1947-49 is worth only 69¢ now. This obviously is a powerful trend spanning a whole generation. It could be that an international crisis of the dollar could set off another depression but it's more likely that international chaos would end up in runaway global inflation.

Second, on top of the long-term trend has been piled a near-term quickening of pace in price rises. Today, this is more the result of pressures from rising costs than from surging demands, and also today, the pressures are most evident in the services. Thus, even a big income tax surcharge or a continuing tight money squeeze could not be expected to do more than moderate the 1968 price increase; reducing demands for goods is not the key problem. After a decade of minor annual cost-of-living increases, the government's consumer price index rose 3.3 per cent in 1966, another approximate 3 per cent in 1967 and is scheduled to climb more than 3 per cent this year.

Third, the cost of buying food for your use at home surely will rise at least 2-2½ per cent in 1968 as against an actual decline in the cost of food in 1967. The single, most powerful force which kept down the rise in our total cost of living last year was the decline in the cost of "food at home." Had this decline not occurred, the squeeze would have been fierce, for medical care services climbed almost 8 per cent; "eating out" jumped 5 per cent; apparel and upkeep rose more than 4 per cent, etc. With food at home prices also rising this year, the pinch will be indisputable.

Fourth, despite this prospect, there is no basis for runaway inflation, such as we experienced in the 1940's. Industry is operating well below capacity; tight money is and will be a restraint; competitive imports are a deterrent to price hikes.

What all the above adds up to is that you can beat this new spiral by knowing and following the key rules. Check the sales and supermarket specials regularly. Be selective in your purchases and take advantage of seasonal bargains. Shop for sources and types of loans. Maybe you can more than beat the spiral.

They might agree to a ceasefire in the hope of getting rid of American power in the peninsula, but not to maintain American power there. Accordingly, the present peace proposals are not likely to get much further than those of the past.

PEARSON & ANDERSON

FBI 'Bug' Picked Up Quizzing

WASHINGTON—The secret microphones planted by the FBI in Fred Black's hotel suite not only picked up the private conversations of Congressional leaders, White House aides and business tycoons, but also caught newspaper columnists in quest of information. We happen to be the columnists whose efforts were recorded on hidden FBI tapes.

We were investigating the same rumors as the Justice Department—namely that Black was the gambling syndicate's front man in Washington. Unknown to us, however, the FBI was tuned in on our investigation.

One of the FBI's secret summaries states: "The following communication pertains to information obtained by the informant (meaning the FBI bug) concerning a visit to Black by columnist Jack Anderson, associate of Drew Pearson, on 4-5-63 at approximately 6 P.M."

In response to questions, according to the transcript, Black admitted that a grand jury was investigating him "to find some conflict of interest or maybe I was paying off somebody."

"Did they bring Levinson before the grand jury?" asked Anderson.

"Ed Levinson?" The FBI noted that "this question seemed to surprise Black."

"I never had any business dealings with him," said Black.

"They're saying you're representing him,"

"Well that isn't true, I emphatically deny it. He's one of the best friends I have over a period of two years."

Black acknowledged that his association with Levinson had aroused the suspicions of the FBI which, Black claimed, watched him when he visited Las Vegas.

"They're watching everyone with those people," said Anderson. "They think that you're some kind of a bag man or something for them."

"I represent legitimate companies," protested Black.

"Have you ever talked to any Senators or Congressmen or anybody about any of their problems out there?"

"No," said Black, "the only thing I did was for Jimmy Morrison (then Congressman from Louisiana). He had charge of getting a bunch of Congressional secretaries and people like that on a summer trip when Congress was over. Through Cliff Jones, who owns the Thunderbird, I arranged for them to headquarter at the Thunderbird."

"They told me that you represented Levinson," Anderson persisted.

"Jack," pleaded Black, "some day when Eddie comes here for dinner or something, I want you to meet him. He's a little hard to describe. I know his whole background. He was probably the biggest bookmaker Detroit ever had. I know he was the biggest gambler Miami ever had. Then he went to Las Vegas. He came under the granddaddy law; it excused him for anything he ever did as long as he stayed working in Nevada. He told us all these things."

Anderson, referring again to the Justice Department's investigation, contended: "They aren't going to that extent because they saw you in his (Levinson's) company. They have to be convinced of more than that. What they told me, my informant told me, they think they got something."

Immediately after Anderson's departure, according to the transcript, Black called in John Cye Cheasty, a private eye, and reported the results of the interview.

"The Justice Department told him (Anderson) they consider me a liaison man and bag man for Las Vegas, the gamblers in Las Vegas," said Black.

"Pearson could murder you," warned Cheasty.

"No, he couldn't murder me."

"He could give you bad publicity."

Thinking it over, Black growled: "They wanted him to blast me in the paper."

"They wanted to plant a story," agreed Cheasty.

"I can't understand why they gave that to Anderson. That, to me is dirty pool."

"I think this comes from Bobby Kennedy (then Attorney General)," said Black, and he cursed out Kennedy bitterly.

Shortly after the tapes were transcribed, the FBI sent an urgent summary by teletype to the Las Vegas and Los Angeles field offices. The message was marked "June," a code word for "secret."

"(Black) said he was going to tell Levinson about the information received from Anderson," concluded the teletype, then added: "Las Vegas and Los Angeles be alert for information pertaining to Black's statement that he would furnish information from Anderson to Levinson."

Once the FBI sets up its listening devices, apparently, there's no telling whose conversations might be overheard.

Note: Judge William Jones has broken all precedents by ordering the FBI to furnish him with all its records in the Black case. Under protest, J. Edgar Hoover has turned over the full file; but he is still pleading with the court not to release everything to Black's attorneys. Judge Jones has angrily ordered an investigation, meanwhile, into how we got hold of the still-secret transcripts.

Opening Not Encouraging

HARRISBURG — Columnist's Notebook:

LEGISLATIVE "OMENS"?—For those who dabble in witch's brew, Friday the 13th, and similar superstitious folderol, the opening this week of the 152nd regular session of Pennsylvania's Legislature most certainly was anything but encouraging!

On this basis the omens definitely were not within legislative favor—nor for that matter were they in favor of His Excellency as he joined in opening ceremonies Tuesday and presented his "State of the Commonwealth" message to the assembled legislative braves.

For example, since 1776 when the Keystone State's legislative pioneers met in that first session of Pennsylvania's General Assembly, there have been only thirteen openings on January 2—and you've guessed it: the session opening this week on January 2 was the thirteenth.

(Actually it wasn't until the Constitution of 1838 that legislative sessions began convening in January. Prior to that they convened on pre-January dates.) And a tidbit to the ill-omen view, when lawmakers adjourned their 1967 session late last month, Shafter Administration Republicans enjoyed 102 GOP seats in the House of Representatives—the exact number needed to pass legislation.

When they convened on Tuesday for the 1968 session however, they did so with only 101 seats in administration grasp, thanks to a vacancy within their ranks created on Monday when former Bradford County Representative Evan S. Williams took his oath for office as a Bradford County judge.

On top of this however it was a record-breaking chilly day in Harrisburg (weatherwise) as lawmakers convened, with the temperature below zero early in the morn and only in the teens during the day. There are those who feel the 1968 session may be just as chilly.

MORE "DONKEY DOLLARS"—Two years ago Neil H. Tasker, of Shamokin, produced what were known at the time as "Donkey Dollars," designed as a play on the Democratic administration in Washington.

In preparation for presidential election year 1968, "private citizen" Tasker has produced another edition of the "Donkey Dollar" which he insists he will gladly send to any who write him requesting some of the folding "bills."

The newest edition of the "Donkey Dollar" is the same size as a dollar bill, with a picture of a donkey's head in the center. On the left (in red ink) is a picture of the Capital in Washington with a notation: "We keep the country in the red." On the right is a sketch of the White House (in black) with the inscription reading: "We keep the public in the dark."

Explains Mr. Tasker: "I am just an ordinary American citizen who feels very strongly that there is too much waste and unnecessary spending in government. I also believe that the public is entitled to know more than it has been told about long range government policies."

"Say Again, Sir?"—District Game Protector J. J. Troutman, of Everett, Bedford County, found this one difficult to believe: After picking up a hunter for transporting a loaded shotgun in his car, he tried to impress the gent with the seriousness of the violation by pointing out that he had investigated three fatal hunting accidents caused by loaded guns in cars.

"He had a question," Protector Troutman noted in his report to the Game Commission. "He wanted to know what 'fatal' meant!" And then he added thoughtfully: "In all probability if he keeps on hunting like this, he'll be one before he finds out!"

Food For Thought

It once puzzled me how civilized man could ever have acquired a taste for lobsters, crabs, shrimps, oysters, squids, and snails. The contemplation of any of these when they are in the live state does not stimulate the taste buds. I still avoid raw oysters and clams. I find them too repulsive, and they aren't much better looking when cooked.

I finally came to the conclusion that modern man did not have to learn to eat these delicacies. They were a legacy from his Stone Age ancestry. When Stone Age man was little more than a hungry animal in search of food he was not at all particular about what he ate. By the time his descendants had become civilized, they had already dropped the more repulsive food items from their diet.

The fact that canned rattlesnake meat, chocolate-covered ants, canned grubs and grasshoppers may be bought at delicatessen stores doesn't mean that we are reverting back to the Stone Age in our eating habits. These delicacies have never enjoyed a mass market. The few people who do buy them seldom eat them more than once. They may get a vicarious thrill out of eating these oddities and telling their friends about the experience.

Our Stone Age ancestors probably ate spiders as well as white grubs. The Matsigenka tribesmen in Africa still consider roast spiders a delicacy. Before we look down our noses at such a custom, we should remember that the lobster is a closer relative of the spider than of the fish. I have always noticed a resemblance between sea crabs and spiders. The giant spider crab of Japan may measure twelve feet from tip to tip of the outstretched claws, and it bears a striking resemblance to a monstrous spider.

I once ordered half-a-dozen ordinary crabs in a sea food restaurant in Albany. They were served side-by-side on a long platter. Each crab with its outstretched legs resembled a large, hairless tarantula. Being spider conscious, I had to curb my imagination each time I tore off a crab's leg and dug out the delicious meat.

I would never be able to follow the complicated ritual that a French chef goes through in preparing snails for the table. I would quickly lose my appetite for this delicacy. But being on the receiving end at a restaurant in Orleans, France, I found snails rather good eating. Each snail, bathed in a rich butter and garlic sauce, rested snugly in the bottom of a tiny clay baking pot.

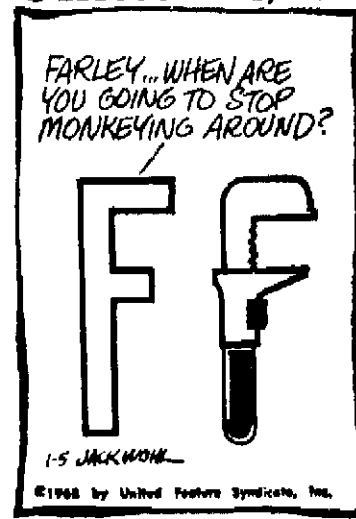

One had to spear the snail with a small fork. If it retained its head and "horns," they were not visible. Instead, I popped into my mouth a rather formless black, chewy mass that had a flavor all its own.

Some Frenchmen not only eat raw snails along with raw clams and oysters in restaurants, but also run down snails out in their gardens and eat them raw on the spot—head, "horns" and all. Snails are mollusks, but so are clams. People who rave about New England clam chowder shouldn't condemn Frenchmen for eating snails.

If a person is a really finicky eater he should avoid chicken in any form. This barnyard fowl has some very nasty habits and is about the dirtiest creature that we can eat. I hesitated more than once to eat the eggs that we bought from a rancher near Jemez Springs, New Mexico. He always placed in the chicken yard the rotting carcasses of coyotes that he had killed. The chicken seemed to enjoy picking at the flesh of these animals. Then we in turn ate the eggs that the chickens laid.

The real connoisseurs of exotic dishes were said to have been the ancient Chinese. I don't know if spiders were ever featured in their cuisine, but the most princely dish for an honored guest was said to have been newly-born live mice floating in honey.

Uncertainty About LBJ Causes Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took another loss Thursday amid reports of Vietnam peace feelers and further uncertainty about President Johnson's program to bolster the dollar and strengthen the U.S. balance of payments position. Trading was heavy.

Confusion among investors seemed to be building to a serious decline but this was halted when the Dow Jones industrial average was down 9.08 to 895.05 at 2 p.m.

Partial recovery followed, and the closely watched indicator closed with a loss of only 4.74 at 899.39.

Volume climbed to 13.44 million shares from 12.66 million Wednesday.

Reports of peace feelers had a double-barreled effect, weakening the aerospace defense stocks and some of the high-flying electronics which have been big suppliers of defense needs. But the possibility of peace had a beneficial effect on utilities and

Find it Hard To Discourage Traveling

LONDON (AP)—Fly to Spain. Cruise to Malta. Sail up the Amazon. Ski in Switzerland. The annual avalanche of travel lures is on again, and Britains, like the United States, wants to keep it within bounds. It has found that it can discourage people from traveling abroad, but can't stop them under current restrictions.

Britons still through foreign shores although legally their spending abroad is limited to 50 pounds a person. When this limit was imposed in June 1966 it was equivalent to $140. Now, with the pound at $2.40, it amounts to $120.

Amounts of currency are entered in passports when they are checked at departure points. Travelers are advised about the restriction when they apply for tickets or foreign currency.

"The general feeling in the trade is that the 50-pound limit has not prevented people from traveling," says the Association of British Travel Agents.

About 3 1/2 million Britons went on overseas vacations last year, an association spokesman estimated.

"There was a big increase in package deals, with charter flights, hotel charges and other travel expenses paid in a lump sum to agents at the start of the vacation," he added. "The 50-pound limit is also allowed for each child, so a family with two small children manages quite well. It's not so good for a single person or a married couple on their own."

Charges for air fares and hotel costs in the package deals are deducted from 50 pounds before travelers leave, but this is done by travel agencies on a sliding scale and may result in juggling of the charges in terms of foreign currency. There are other ways of getting around the spending limit.

"The bigger spenders can nearly always fiddle their currency arrangements one way or another," one travel agent said. "They get business friends or relatives to supply them with currency."

Even so, the British treasury estimates that spending by Britons overseas last year was 25 to 30 million pounds less than in 1966.

Ajax Parent Drops Merger

HOUSTON, Texas—Cooper Industries, Inc., and Waukesha Motor Company, Waukesha, Wis., have decided to abandon the proposed merger of Waukesha into Cooper, previously approved by the shareholders of both companies on October 20th, 1967, in view of the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice's continuing opposition to the merger.

President Thomas E. Kramer of Cooper and President Charles E. Nelson of Waukesha stated that they do not believe that the costs and delays incident to a judicial review of the proposed merger are in the best interests of the shareholders of either company.

The New Look

With Section II competition starting in both basketball and wrestling tonight, it may be appropriate to remind you that the conference is now an eight-team circuit.

Cranberry and Rocky Grove were admitted to the league last spring, to the dismay of many coaches, and their inclusion will affect the relationship between the six "original" schools in both sports.

Neither is expected to be a wrestling power, but Rocky Grove in particular has a couple fine individual matmen who will have to be reckoned with, especially at the season-end Section IV tourney.

It's in basketball that they will make their presence felt.

First of all, we should explain that, under the new setup, all eight teams will play conference competition for the next two months, the same schedule the wrestling teams face.

Therefore, all the teams, like the Dragons, have been playing non-league opponents up until now and their comparative strengths can only be estimated.

Rocky Grove and Cranberry, for example, show the best records among the eight teams to date. The Orioles are 7-0 and the Berries have a 7-1 slate. Not bad, even if most of the wins did come against Class B competition, as both schools themselves still are according to PIAA enrollment requirements.

On the other hand, the records of Warren, Corry, Franklin, Meadville, Oil City and Titusville are less than impressive, although the six "old guard" members have been playing the bigger boys.

We're not predicting that Rocky Grove or Cranberry will win the conference title, but anything's possible.

As we mentioned in a previous column, Meadville has been whipped a few times already this season, but still has to be rated the favorite on past performance alone.

It may be well to note that, as veteran Oil City Derrick sports scribe Hank Dolecki reminded us in his column this week, the Bulldogs lost nine exhibition games a few years ago, then came on to sweep the Section.

If Norm Sundstrom's charges don't do it, your guess is as good as ours about the champion.

The Dragons, certainly, have hope. Franklin may have the talent, Titusville has Jim Romanizsyn, Oil City has a new gym and Corry has problems.

All-in-all, it's a strange situation. That is, all eight teams starting out with a definite possibility to be the loop champion.

We're not counting Meadville out, but wouldn't it be a refreshing change if someone else won it this season?

STEELE SHAVINGS—Since listing the ex-Dragon grapplers who are now on the college mats, we've learned that Dick "Tiger" Thompson is captain of the Arizona State team.

We're enjoying a good laugh over the current heavyweight situation. Joe Frazier's handlers pulled the smartest move in the sport for many years by holding their boy out of the elimination tourney. Now, if he whips Buster Mathis later this year, the matchmakers will have to pair him against the tourney winner, probably Jimmy Ellis. After all, there won't be anyone else around to fight.

When it's all over, however, there still will be only one true heavyweight champ—Cassius Clay. He's the greatest.

Bruins Nip Flyers, Tied for East Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Boston Bruins moved into a tie for first place in the National Hockey League's East Division by edging the Philadelphia Flyers 3-2 Thursday night on Phil Esposito's goal with 3:51 minutes remaining.

The victory gave Boston 45 points, good for a deadlock with the Chicago Black Hawks. The Flyers maintained a four-point lead over the Los Angeles Kings in the West Division.

Esposito's goal, his second of the game, finished off a three man breakaway as the Bruins caught Philadelphia with only Larry Zeidel back on defense. Tommy Williams and Teddy Green set up Esposito for the perfect passage.

Long Island U.

Wins Number 11

NEW YORK (AP)—The shooting of Cliff Culuko and the rebounding of Culuko and Ronnie Smalls led unbeaten Long Island University to its 11th straight victory, 53-47 over Seton Hall Thursday night.

Culuko, who scored 21 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, clinched the Metropolitan Conference triumph by hitting a jump shot to make it 51-45 in favor of Long Island with 1:41 left.

Smalls came off the bench in the second half to haul down eight rebounds.

BULL-OF-THE-WOODS

Boston forward Bailey Howell slams a shoulder into Laker Dennis Hamilton, who was guarding him closely, and picks up an offensive foul in Wednesday night's game. Looking on at left is Darrell Imhoff of Los Angeles. The Celtics won it, 113-103 to move to within 2½ games of NBA Eastern Division leader Philadelphia. Howell sparked the victory with 30 points.

DRAGONS' DOUG SORESENSEN OUT

Warren Hosting Franklin Matmen in Section Match

Warren Area High School's wrestling team takes the first step down a long road to a possible Section II championship tonight by hosting the Franklin Knights.

Frustrated by three straight second place finishes, the Dragons have developed a determined attitude about the conference crown this season and the Knights present the first hurdle.

Coached by Al Shilling, the Knights are not expected to be a pushover despite a lackluster 1-2-1 record. The lone Franklin win was a 35-9 romp over Jamestown, Pa., but both losses were by a meager two points.

Grove City nipped the Knights 25-23, in their opener, then Greenville took a 23-21 decision after the victory over James-

Kansas City New Soccer Loop Entry

NEW YORK (AP)—Kansas City will be the new entry in the nationwide professional soccer circuit, to be known simply as the Professional Soccer League, it was announced Thursday at a merger meeting of the United Soccer Association and the National Professional Soccer League.

A Kansas City group headed by attorney John Latschaw has taken over the franchise of the Chicago Spurs in the NPSL.

That move plus official announcement that the Pittsburgh team of the NPSL would not operate, left the merged pro circuit with a maximum of 19 teams to start the 1968 season. The owners will determine Friday just where, how and how many will operate for the new season scheduled to begin April 1.

The Los Angeles Toros of the NPSL, departing from the Los Angeles area as part of the agreement to have only one team cities in operation, are expected to operate in San Diego. The Boston Rovers of the USA will leave that city to the Boston Beacons, which will start play this year.

The Toronto City team of the USA is bowing out, leaving the Canadian city to the Toronto Falcons.

Wings Rout Seals, 9-3

DETROIT (AP)—Rookie Doug Roberts and veteran Gordie Howe each scored two goals and two assists as the Detroit Red Wings routed the Oakland Seals 9-3 Thursday night for their fourth straight National Hockey League victory.

The loss was the 10th in the last 11 games for Oakland, including a scoreless tie with Pittsburgh. Oakland is last in the Western Division.

The Seals, shut out in their last four games, ended a scoreless string of 276 minutes, 15 seconds when Lain Caron beat Detroit netminder Roy Edwards with a 25-foot slapshot for his sixth goal at 8:26 of the first period.

It was the first Oakland goal since Billy Hicke scored for Oakland at 12:11 of the second period in a 6-3 loss at Boston Christmas night.

Roberts tied the score with his sixth goal of the season at the 11:12 mark of the first period. The Red Wings took the lead for good 45 seconds later when Alex Delvecchio took a pass from Gary Bergman and skated in all alone, beating Oakland goalie Gary Smith at close range.

Bergman had three assists.

Grade School Rec Cage Program Set

A recreational basketball program is being held at Warren Area High School on Saturday mornings from 9 to 12. Boys in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades are eligible to participate.

Market Street Wins Gra-Y Loop Contest

The Market Street cagers downed Irvinedale in Gra-Y basketball last night, 31-19. Walters was high for Irvinedale with nine points.

Leading Market to victory were Alan Torrance with 12 points and Tom Gay with 10.

All Five Warren County Quintets Start Conference Action Tonight

The county cage teams are back in action tonight after the holiday lull as leagues open for all five squads. Three of the teams are on the road and two stage contests at home.

Warren takes off for Franklin, while Youngsville travels to Spartansburg and Tidoute journeys to East Forest. The Sheffield Wolverines will play host to Brockway and Eisenhower sets the table for Pleasantville.

Opening in the Upper Allegheny Valley League are Youngsville, Eisenhower and Tidoute. Sheffield bounces into the Allegheny Mountain League while Warren plays its opener in Section II.

The Dragons will be carrying a 2-5 slate into their contest at Franklin. Coach Joe Shantz faces indecision as to the starting five. Four cagers received the starting bid, but the final position will be open until the opening whistle.

Dan Krumm and Dave Cobb are elected for the tipoff, as are the O'Neil brothers, Dan and Ed. The fifth position is a toss up between Randy Jones and Mike Hackett. Both boys are excellent on the boards and should see plenty of action no matter who starts.

The Knights show a 5-3 record at the end of pre-league action. The biggest loss the Red and Black faced came at the hands of Erie East, 82-62.

The Lawrence brothers, famed grid stars Roland and Roland, also head the starting five for the Knight cage team. Roland averages 18 points a game while Roland pours in 15.

A trio of cagers add to the Knight scoring as Fred Stevens, Tim Law and Steve Grace all carry at least a ten-point average. Stevens netted 24 points against Erie East, scoring on one-handed jump shots from the key.

The last tilt for the Red and Black was with Greenville last Tuesday, when they lost their third game, 58-53.

Sheffield will be pressed hard for their first league victory as they meet a rugged Rover squad. Brockway carries a 2-5 record, but has played Class A schools in their opening contests.

The Orange and Black starting five will be led by high scorer Wayne Swanson. Swanson carries a 27 point average for the eight straight victories the Wolverines have compiled.

Mark McGuire will be another pick for the start. He netted 33 points against Pleasantville in Tuesday's game. Jeff Scalsie, Robbie Hart, and Tim Hecel will balance out the first five at the flip of the ball.

Also slated to see plenty of action will be Mike Steffan and Rick Grubbs. The Wolverine squad boasts plenty of depth.

The Rovers' leader will be Dave Petak. Petak is the sole letterman and leads all Red and Black cagers in scoring. Another outstanding cager on the squad is Lloyd Bovard. Bovard is only a junior, but Coach John McNulty acclaims him as one of his best.

The Wolverine jayvees have also gone eight games without a loss and will attempt to keep up with their "big brothers" on the hardwood tonight.

The AML title has been absent from the halls of Sheffield for some time. A victory in their league opener could bring another string of triumphs for the Orange and Black.

The Tidoute Bulldogs will rely on the combination of Ed Ziegler, Mark Rondinelli, Scott McKay, Ron Carr and Max Anderson for their first victory of the season. The Bulldogs carry a 0-4 slate and are hungry.

The last game the Bulldogs played was against the Alumni on December 22. The Orange and Black lost to the "team of yesterday," 53-39.

East Forest still carries a winless record despite the fact that they had several returning lettermen. Jim Gatesman heads the list of cagers with a 17-point average.

The Bears have dropped several close games, including a 66-64 battle to Johnsonburg. A Youngsville lineup wasn't available as Coach Paul Siegel remains undecided as to who to start. A roster of seven boys was presented, with all expected to see action.

George Nelson, the big man on the Eagle squad, is sure to get the starting nod, along with Denny Walton and Gary Wood.

Walton still ranks as high scorer for the Red and White. Tom Burlingame, Jack Maze, Rich Anderson and Bob Long will be the resources from which Coach Siegel develops the remainder of his starting five.

The Eagles carry a 4-5 slate as they wrapped up the pre-league slate by downing Clymer prior to the holidays, 52-40.

Spartansburg will be hurting as eight of their nine top men from last year donned the cap and gown. Coach Ren Nicklaus will be relying on Brent Allen, 5-10, and Gary Linden to total up the points for the Spartans. Both cagers have averaged 15 points a game.

The Spartans remain winless with an 0-5 record, while last year they finished the season with a 17-5 slate.

Bob Burlingame, 6-7 cager for Eisenhower, may find it a little hard to maneuver on the hardwood tonight as he comes up against Greg Holtz, 6-8, of the Pleasantville squad. Holtz is a fast ballplayer for his size and carries the scoring honors on the Falcon squad.

Besides Burlingame, the starting Knight five will be comprised of small, but good ballplayers. Tim Allen, Jeff Lindell, Alan Swanson, and Greg Johnson will be called upon to score while Burlingame decides what to do with his first taller opponent.

The Knights carry a 3-4 record and have collected their trio of wins in the last three outings. Pleasantville sports a 4-3 slate after losing to Sheffield on Tuesday, 97-65.

A strong defense will again be the Blue and Gold objective as they remain weak in that area. Four cagers slated for action in relief are Bob Sliiter, Bart Lohnes, Bob Russell and Randy

Sophs Still Dominate In Scoring

NEW YORK (AP)—Sophomores Pete Maravich of Louisiana State and Calvin Murphy of Niagara continue to dominate the scoring race among the nation's major college basketball players.

According to statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services, Maravich is averaging 44.9 points a game and Murphy is scoring at a 42.5 clip.

Far behind in third place is Rich Travis of Oklahoma City at 34.4. Houston's Elvin Hayes is fourth at 32.2 and Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure fifth at 29.4.

Joe Allen of Bradley is the most accurate shooter from the field, hitting on 71.1 per cent of his shots, while the top free throw shooter is Bob Arzen of Notre Dame with a .941 percentage. Eastern Kentucky's Garfield Smith leads in rebounds with an average of 23.8 a game. UCLA has the most potent offense, scoring 105.5 points a game, and Tulsa has the toughest defense, permitting just 55 points a game.

Valley Tops Locals in Taft League

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — The Warren Times-Mirror & Observer basketball team dropped a 77-64 decision to the Pine Valley Merchants in Taft League competition Wednesday night.

The Merchants, led by Jerry Skurcenski and Dick Mansfield, held a 42-36 lead at intermission and held on to the advantage in the second half. Pine Valley had a 35 to 28 edge from the floor, the margin of victory.

Skurcenski scored 29 points, including 14 field goals, and Mansfield hit for 23. Art Mansfield, with 11, was the only other Merchant in double figures. Ex-Titusville High School ace Joel Beason, fully recovered from an early season injury, was high for the TMO cagers with 18 points. Bob Winterburn had 16 and Dave Berdine added 14.

Cards Say Reported Split Isn't Serious

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Negro members of the St. Louis football Cardinals confirmed Thursday newspaper reports that the Redbirds are not one big happy family, but said problems have not reached the boiling point.

The comments were prompted by reports in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Post-Dispatch Wednesday of dissension, that players were dissatisfied with Cardinals management and coaches and fellow players.

The Globe-Democrat reported that eight players deliberately missed bed check the night before the final game of the season against the New York Giants. The newspaper said the athletes were fined about $3,200.

Cardinals President Charles (Stormy) Bidwill and Vice President William Bidwill said Thursday from Miami, where they were attending a National Football League meeting, there is no great difficulty and none is expected.

The newspaper reports said players were dissatisfied with the unavailability of President Bidwill, who lives in Chicago, and Negro players had demanded that an assistant coach be fired.

The newspaper reports said Negro players handed a list of grievances and demands to head coach Charley Winner.

Winner, contacted in Mobile, Ala., Wednesday where he was scouting Senior Bowl players, declined to comment.

Navy Gives Elias New 2-Year Pact

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The U.S. Naval Academy announced Thursday that football coach Bill Elias has been signed to a new two-year contract.

Although exact terms were not mentioned, sources close to the Academy's Athletic Association indicated that Elias, who ended last season with an upset 19-14 victory over Army and a 4-1 record, will be getting $19,500.

Although the contract is for two years, it can be renegotiated by either party after the 1968 season.

Elias, who came to the Academy in 1965, has coached the Midshipmen to an overall 13-14-3 record.

Before he took over from former coach Wayne Hardin, Elias had been head coach at George Washington and the University of Virginia and had served for eight years as assistant coach at Purdue.

The Navy mentor has a major rebuilding job on his hands before the start of next year's schedule, losing quarterback John Cartwright and his favorite target, end Bob Taylor.

Although Navy's 1968 schedule still is not complete, included among its opponents will be Penn State, Michigan, Syracuse, Notre Dame and Army.

Neither Prothro, Duffy Overconfident for Hula

HONOLULU (AP) — You ask Tommy Prothro how things are going and he shrugs his shoulders.

You ask Duffy Daugherty the same thing and he shrugs his shoulders verbally: "You can't tell, really—with the little practice we've had."

That doesn't mean the opposing coaches for Saturday's Hula Bowl football game are worried—it simply means the situation is progressing as expected for an All-Star football game.

Prothro and Daugherty each has a squad of 27 college players from all over the country, and they've seen them in exactly two workouts. It doesn't figure the coaches could come up

Loop Warns Ice Coaches

MONTREAL (AP) — National Hockey League coaches were warned Thursday that any charging onto the ice to protest a referee's decision will result in the coach's ejection from the bench.

Scotty Morrison, the NHL's referee-in-chief, said both he and the rules committee feel strongly that no coach should be allowed to step on the ice. He said three such incidents have taken place in the last month.

An automatic $50 fine covers such an offense but "obviously is not a sufficient deterrent to a coach stepping on the ice," Morrison added.

Thus, the NHL official has instructed his referees to order an offending coach to a place in the arena where it is not possible for him to direct his club.

Morrison said he does not think it would be necessary to restrict a coach to the dressing room.

Morrison added that Bert Olmstead's charge onto the ice in Boston on Christmas night touched off a melee between Oakland and the Bruins, a fracas that resulted in $1,450 fines.

"Anything that happens on our ball club is a closed affair between the coaches and the players and there's nothing to say about it," Winner said.

Tackle Ernie McMillan, a Negro, said today the newspaper accounts of the Negroes' meeting with Winner took things out of context.

"I don't even remember what the grievances were," McMillan said, but added, "there was nothing so overbearing that we couldn't live with them."

"We did not demand anything from the coach. Our only interest was to help the team next year and we wanted to discuss problems for a possible solution toward that end."

"We gave the list of grievances to the coach to settle in his own way," said fullback Willis Crenshaw.

"There was nothing threatening. There wasn't any demanding or suggesting that anybody be fired. We had a specific set of grievances to discuss."

Another Negro player who wished to remain unidentified said it appeared one member of the coaching staff seemed racially biased.

Running back Johnny Roland, discussing the same problem, said he was not discriminated against, but "I could see it happening to some of the other players."

Roland said he did not see the final draft of the letter written to Winner by the Negroes but he was told it asked for a compromise in the assistant coach's way of thinking and going about things.

The Bidwills confirmed the meeting between Winner and the Negro players.

"There was frank discussion and agreement. . . there were no so-called demands."

"Rumors of dissension always seem to go along with a losing streak or a losing season," said the Bidwill statement. "It's an easy explanation, it's the east way out."

"Despite what may have been written, we anticipate no problems with Cardinals players in 1968."

Astrodome Prepares For Cage Headliner

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — When UCLA and Houston meet Jan. 20 in the Astrodome, the two top ranked basketball teams will operate from dugouts and make use of a court from California and backboards from Massachusetts.

Special dugouts for use by players, official scorers and timers, and news media representatives will extend the length of the court on both sidelines.

More than 44,000 tickets have been sold for the nationally televised game. The final batch of reserved seat tickets goes on sale Friday. Standing room only tickets to be sold later are expected to push the attendance total to a record 55,000.

with any scintillating pregame analysis.

Both defenses have been set. On offense, the South still was alternating Warren McVea of Houston and Ben Garito of South Carolina at halfback, Phil Ode of Brigham Young and Ken Hebert of Houston at split end, and John Franz of California and E. A. Gresham of Texas Christian at center. The lone defense reserve is linebacker Mike Sweatman of Kansas.

Where Prothro is going strictly with two running backs and a flanker, Daugherty's North team will have that formation and one with three running backs.

"We don't have any break-away threats," Daugherty said, "but a lot of size and power."

The size and power boys are All-America fullback Larry Csonka of Syracuse, Bob Apisa of Michigan State and Silas McKinney of Iowa.

Daugherty still hasn't decided on a starting quarterback between his own man, Jimmy Raye of Michigan State, and Syracuse's Rick Cassata.

All Ducats Sold For Super Bowl

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tickets for the Super Bowl professional football game were reported sold out Thursday, assuring the Green Bay Packers and the Oakland Raiders more than 70,000 spectators for their Jan. 14, contest.

A spokesman for the Super Bowl Committee said the final tickets—in the end zone—went Thursday morning.

The game, pitting the champions of the National Football League against the American Football League titleholder, was moved to Miami this year after a poor showing at the box office in its inaugural performance in Los Angeles last year. Paid attendance at Los Angeles was 61,946.

NOW, ALTOGETHER... HUMMMM

It's not a new vocal trio harmonizing, but three of the fighters on the scheduled title fight double-header displaying their hardware, from left to right, Joe Frazier, Emile Griffith and Buster Mathis. Frazier and Mathis will meet in a two-state heavyweight championship bout and Griffith will defend his middleweight crown against Nino Benvenuti. The WBA has criticized the recognition by New York and Massachusetts of the Mathis-Frazier fight as a title bout. (See story below.)

'DISUNITY ADVERSE FOR BOXING'

Title Fight Plans Rapped By World Boxing Official

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The World Boxing Association assailed Thursday plans for a Joe Frazier-Buster Mathis fight that will be considered a heavyweight championship match in the eyes of the New York and Massachusetts commissions.

Emile Bruneau, chairman of the WBA's World's Championship Committee, said the WBA definitely would not consider the match as a fight for the championship.

"However," he said in a statement, "should New York and Massachusetts and other states want to have championship contests and wind up with synthetic titles, this is their business."

"But," Bruneau said, "certainly this type of disunity ultimately can only prove adverse to what is best for boxing."

He said the WBA's current heavyweight elimination tournament would produce a winner that "with recognition of the WBA, will be universally accepted as heavyweight champion."

"The WBA tournament is a splendid example of crowning a champion through very democratic processes," Bruneau said. "Every heavyweight contender rated publicly by the WBA was invited to the tournament."

"Frazier was offered every opportunity to participate and proved his right as a top contender. He stubbornly refused while all other contenders fought their way as sportsmen and gentlemen."

The elimination tournament is still under way. It began after the WBA stripped Cassius Clay of his title when he refused to accept induction into the U.S. Army. Clay has since been convicted and sentenced to prison for violation of Selective Service laws. He is free on bond,

Pa. Slates Ruling on Heavy Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission will decide next week whether it will recognize the winner of the Joe Frazier-Buster Mathis fight as the world heavyweight champion.

Their 15-round bout is scheduled for New York's new Madison Square Garden in early March. New York and Massachusetts have declared they will recognize the winner as the champ.

Frank Wildman, chairman of the Pennsylvania athletic commission, said Thursday he will call for a vote by his fellow commissioners Tuesday.

Pennsylvania is a member of the World Boxing Association, now staging an elimination tournament to pick a successor to deposed champion Cassius Clay.

Frazier, a Philadelphian, and Mathis are not participating in the tournament, and the commission would have to turn its back on the WBA if it recognizes either of those two as champs.

Wildman indicated he favors recognition of the Frazier-Mathis winner.

"The public will not accept the tournament winner, whoever he may be, as the real champion until he has met and beaten Frazier or Mathis," said Wildman.

Phantom Soccer Team Disbanded

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Phantoms professional soccer club will not field a team next season.

John Pollock, vice president and treasurer, said Thursday the team is being disbanded, but might be revived after Pittsburgh's new sports stadium is built.

He said the Phantoms lost about $700,000 last year, the first full season of the National Professional Soccer League.

Pollock said the club was unable to attract new investors because Forbes Field is unsuitable for soccer spectators. After the new stadium is built, he said, the club will have the right of first choice for a franchise with the new league formed by the merger of the National Professional Soccer League and the United Soccer Association.

He said negotiations to merge with a Chicago team and move to Milwaukee fell through.

pending appeal of the conviction.

The Frazier-Mathis fight is to be held in the week of March 4 in the new Madison Square Garden center in New York. On the same card will be a second title fight between the champion Emile Griffith of New York and Italy's Nino Benvenuti.

Bruneau said that since this will be the third title match between Griffith and Benvenuti, "it is doubtful whether it will be recognized by the WBA."

"The WBA has succeeded in the last few years in breaking up monopolistic return bout practices, and the return bout between Griffith and Benvenuti savors of a return to the old obnoxious conditions."

He maintained that results of the second match were certainly conclusive and "other rated boxers should be given an opportunity."

South Out to Rise Again In Senior Bowl Saturday

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Southern players will be battling to revive slumping Dixie prestige Saturday in the 19th Annual Senior Bowl All-Star football game.

The South has scored only one victory in nine tries during post-season bowl and all-star games this winter, probably Dixie's worst showing ever.

Quarterbacks Kim Hammond of Florida State and Dewey Warren of Tennessee will try to avenge earlier setbacks with a passing attack that they hope will stun the North.

However, North quarterback Paul Toscano of Wyoming also may be a man with a mission, because his Cowboys were the only team to bow to a Dixie foe this winter.

Wyoming was beaten by Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl, but Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Miami lost in bowl games. Florida State managed only a tie and the North was triumphant in two earlier all-star games at Montgomery and Miami.

Both teams boast top receivers, with All-America Dennis Homan of Alabama, Bob Goodridge of Vanderbilt and Freddie Hyatt of Auburn expected to be the South's top targets.

Tulsa's Rick Eber, whose 78 receptions was only one shy of the 79 pulled in by Goodridge to lead the nation, will team with end Haven Moses of San Diego State as passing targets for Toscano and his North colleague at quarterback, John Schneider of Toledo.

The South has been warned by Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs to be wary of the running of Dick Anderson of Colorado, defensive back who raced 82 and 69 yards on punt returns for touchdowns in the Blue-Gray game a week ago.

North Coach Mike Holovak of the Boston Patriots has been pleased with the progress of his squad, and Yankees will be trying for their second straight victory.

The North won a year ago 35-13 before a capacity crowd of 40,605.

Both teams were assigned double drills Thursday in their final heavy tuneups for the game, with several late arrivals such as Indiana lineman Gary Cassels and Lamar Tech fullback Tommy Smiley getting special attention.

Smiley will sub for Georgia fullback Ronnie Jenkins, out with a knee injury.

The game, which starts at 2 p.m. EST, will be televised nationally by NBC.

Members of the winning team will receive $1,000 each, with the losers each pocketing $750.

Leaders named by the South squad Thursday were Hammond on offense and linebacker D. D. Lewis of Mississippi State on defense.

Trojans' Sogge May Sign Baseball Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Steve Sogge, a big factor in the success of the University of Southern California Rose Bowl football team, said Thursday he might sign a professional baseball contract in June and forego another season of football.

"If I have a good year and an offer was right, I might sign to play baseball," said the 20-year-old athlete, referring to his final season of college baseball eligibility coming up this spring.

Sogge, a hard-hitting catcher who batted over .300 as a sophomore and this past year as a junior, has one more season of football eligibility.

It was Sogge, so unheralded that his biography was inadvertently left out of the Trojan football pressbook, who stepped into the No. 1 quarterback spot when senior Toby Page was injured in the first game of the grid season last September. He never relinquished the position and Southern Cal went on to the national championship.

O. J. Simpson was the half-back star of Southern Cal's 14-3 victory over Indiana in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day but Sogge was an important cog in the Trojan machine.

Sogge said he has been scouted by such baseball teams as the Los Angeles Dodgers, California Angels, the San Francisco Giants and the New York Yankees.

"Nothing was ever said about money. That would be illegal," he said. "But they'd say they were interested in me and I'd say I was interested in them."

Sogge said intimates, has considered the possibility that he might get injured in football. At 5-feet-10, 170 pounds, Sogge presumably agrees that he is not physically big enough for a pro football career.

A personable young man, Sogge's thoughts were first published Thursday in the Santa Monica Evening Outlook. He told sports writer Steve Bisheff: "I haven't made up my mind, but if the offer is right, I'll sign."

Stofa was traded to the Cincinnati club for two high draft choices last month. Stofa, starting quarterback of the Dolphins until he broke his ankle early in the season, reportedly made $16,000 with the Miami club,

Republicans May Fall Short Of Winning Majority in House

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Republican gains in the 1968 election for the House of Representatives will probably fall short of winning a majority, a national survey indicated Thursday.

Political estimates gathered by correspondents of the New York Times in all 50 states suggested that the Republican gains would be in the neighborhood of 15 seats, about half the 31 required to supplant present Democratic control.

Republican candidates registered a net gain of 47 House seats in the 1966 off-year election, and the division now stands at 247 Democrats, 187 Republicans and one vacancy, the seat formerly held by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D.N.Y., which can be expected to go Democratic.

McCarthy Will Conduct 'Tough Campaign'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy accused President Johnson Thursday of presiding over "a kind of Republican foreign policy," and said he will press his Democratic presidential challenge whatever the outcome of the early primary elections.

The Minnesota Democrat acknowledged that New Hampshire's March 12 primary, latest addition to his schedule of six state races against Johnson, will be "a very tough campaign."

"I intend to go on no matter what happens in New Hampshire to the other primaries to which I've publicly committed myself," McCarthy told a news conference.

His race against Johnson is based on disagreement with the administration's conduct of the Vietnam war, and McCarthy said U.S. policy there is not "a projection of what we expected" on the basis of the President's 1964 campaign.

"What we're pursuing is a kind of Republican foreign policy," McCarthy said. He said it was Republicans, notably the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who put "the Asian emphasis" into American foreign policy.

McCarthy outlined his Vietnam policy alternative this way: —Stop escalation of the war. —Halt the bombing as a possible avenue to negotiations. —Negotiate with the Communist National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

—Ultimately, begin phased withdrawals of American troops, coupled with continuing efforts to move the Saigon government into negotiations with the Communists.

Catholics Endorse Statement

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Catholic Conference Thursday endorsed the statement made by Gov. Shafer Tuesday in connection with state aid to nonpublic school children.

In his State of the Commonwealth message, Shafer made passing reference to the issue when he urged speedy action on chores carried over from 1967.

"Among these are important measures in conservation, health...including an effective program of aid to nonpublic school children," the governor said.

The Catholic Conference, which is spokesman for the eight Roman Catholic dioceses in Pennsylvania, said, "Aid to Pennsylvania's 600,000 nonpublic school children is plainly needed now. We trust that this important declaration will at once be closely followed by positive action."

The conference noted that several bills in the legislature would authorize the state to purchase "secular" items of educational service for nonpublic schools.

Walter Sweeney of Sugar Grove was guest speaker Sunday morning at the Wrightsville Community Church. In the evening Harold Thompson was guest speaker with James Thompson of Youngsville leading the singing in the absence of Pastor Rex Meleen who is in the hospital.

Gordon Clark and Kenneth Johnson of Youngsville were speakers Sunday morning at the Berea Lutheran Church in the absence of Pastor James Darow who is ill.

New Year's eve services were held at the Chandlers Valley Church with many attending from the surrounding area, starting with dinner at 9 p. m. in the basement and followed by service upstairs at 11 p. m. The church bell rang in the New Year. Services were conducted by Rev. A. A. Font of Titusville.

have already begun making speeches contending that a majority is realistically within their reach. The chairman of the Republican congressional committee, Rep. Bob Wilson of California, said last month that "we are within shouting distance of control."

According to the Times survey, there are four districts in which the Democrats are in serious trouble, 27 in which they are in danger and another six in which their problems are smaller but discernible.

The comparable figures for current Republican seats are four in serious trouble, 13 in danger and five with lesser problems.

Thus, the Republicans would have to hold every one of their 17 seats in serious or moderate danger and defeat every one of the 31 Democratic candidates in the same two categories to win control of the House. Although candidates and issues can shift elections in the next ten months and politicians' early predictions are always fallible, the figures indicate that the Republican quest for a majority in 1968 will be an uphill climb.

The survey also suggests that the G.O.P. will have trouble winning control of the House for the special purpose of electing a president if none of the candidates should win a majority of the electoral vote.

Under the constitution, a presidential election without an electoral-vote majority is decided by the House, with each state casting a single vote. In the present House, the Democrats control 29 state delegations, the Republicans 18 and three are tied.

If the Republicans hold all their present 18 delegations and carry all the Democratic seats in moderate or serious danger, the House-line-up for presidential purposes would be: Democrats 23 states, Republicans 21 and six state delegations tied.

The all-but-final decision of former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to run for president on a third party ticket raises the possibility of the election going into the House.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Supreme Court justice Thursday upheld, in effect, a three-judge Federal court ruling that provides welfare benefits for new Pennsylvania residents.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. denied without comment a plea by state officials for a delay on the lower court order last month permanently enjoining the state from barring aid to anyone who had not lived in Pennsylvania for at least one year.

The Pennsylvania residency restriction, like those in several other states, was declared unconstitutional.

The state had asked Brennan to delay the effect of the ruling until the Supreme Court could act on an appeal. The justice has jurisdiction over federal courts in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania officials had argued placing new residents on the state's welfare rolls would "cause substantial loss of public funds which cannot be recovered" even though the lower court's ruling was reversed.

After last month's ruling, Dr. Thomas W. Georges Jr., Pennsylvania secretary of welfare, estimated that about 6,750 persons, would be added to the state's welfare rolls.

Defense Dept. Arms Sales May Reach Up to $4.6 Billion

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Defense Department arms sales will reach a combined total of at least $4.5 billion to $4.6 billion over this and the next two fiscal years, Pentagon sources said Thursday.

The Pentagon armaments sales to foreign countries, largely to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, will thus continue to make a major contribution in the effort to solve the United States balance of payments problem.

Defense Department officials have estimated that past arms sales met from 40 to 50 percent of the foreign exchange costs of U.S. overseas troop commitments outside of southeast Asia.

According to the latest statistics, American arms sales totaled $10.15 billion over a six-year period ending last June 30.

The Defense Department had estimated earlier that arms sales would decline during fiscal 1968, and possibly in fiscal 1969 as well, because of the extensive arms modernization programs undertaken by the NATO countries in the last few years.

However, developments since last fall, principally a new desire by West Germany to purchase a large number of sophisticated F-4 Phantom Jets, have proven this estimate too pessimistic.

Pentagon officials are now reasonably certain, the sources said, that arms sales will average at least $1.5 billion this fiscal year and in each of the next two fiscal years.

Germany's purchase of F-4 Phantom Jets could run as high as $700 to $800 million. The sources declined to specify the number of aircraft involved, but it is believed Germany wants well over 200.

A decision on the purchase has been promised by the Bonn government by April.

The Phantoms, the most sophisticated of operational American jets, would be used to replace the more than 70 American designed F-104 Starfighters that the West German Air Force has lost in crashes and to provide a modern reconnaissance plane and naval fighter-bomber until Germany acquires a more advanced plane in the mid-1970's.

Besides the possible purchase of Phantoms, Germany will probably spend an average of $250 million each fiscal year in the United States to buy spare parts for the large amount of American air, naval and ground equipment it now has.

Sales and arms agreements with Italy are also expected to provide around $300 million in weapons business for the Defense Department over the three fiscal years.

Italy has already spent $40 million in the U.S. for co-production of an advanced version of the F-104 and will probably spend another $120 million here on this program by mid-1970. The Italians may also buy a substantial number of CH-47 Chinook transport helicopters.

Italy plans to modernize its military ground equipment with American equipment, and intends to buy new American standard model antiaircraft missiles to replace the U.S.-made Tartar-Terrier series it now uses.

Norway and Denmark are planning sizeable modernization programs over the next two to three years which could also bring the United States over $100 million in arms business by mid-1970.

Both countries need new jet fighter-bombers and may decide to buy Northrop F-5 Freedom Fighters. Norway has already agreed to purchase American P-3 anti-submarine patrol aircraft and Denmark also wants a more modern anti-submarine patrol plane.

The Netherlands is likewise now considering a purchase of P-3 planes from the United States.

In Asia, Japan has announced plans to undertake a five-year arms modernization program which may also result in substantial American weapons purchases.

Ga. Moonshiner Admits Placing Bomb in Car

JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP) — A 23-year-old moonshiner told a jury Thursday that he placed a dynamite bomb under the hood of prosecutor Floyd G. Hoard's car last August for $700 and a used car.

John Hyman Blackwell, one of the five men charged with Hoard's slaying last Aug. 7, said: "I placed the dynamite."

Blackwell, talking in a low voice, related details of the gangland-type killing for the jury trying 76-year-old A. C. "Cliff" Park on a murder charge. The state contends Park ordered the killing.

Blackwell took the stand after special prosecutor Luther Hanes had said a promise had been made by the state to recommend life imprisonment for the confessed triggerman in exchange for a plea of guilty and testimony.

Blackwell, who was arrested at Wrightsville, Ga., after a moonshine still blew up in the house he was occupying, said he was approached by Lloyd George Seay, 24, another of the men charged with the murder but also a prosecution witness.

"He asked me would I help him blow up a man," Blackwell said.

Blackwell said he went with Seay and George I. Worley, a used car salesman from Commerce, to Anderson, S.C., and purchased 10 sticks of dynamite at a grocery. He said he used the fictitious name of Harold Smith in buying the dynamite.

Worley, also indicted on a murder charge, is being hunted nationwide.

On the night of Aug. 6, Blackwell said, he accompanied Seay and Worley to a point near the Hoard residence and walked up to the house to see if the prosecutor's green '67 Ford was there. It was, he said.

He and Worley taped 10 sticks of dynamite together and Worley punched a hole in the middle stick to insert the fuse, Blackwell said.

But Blackwell said he raised the hood and attached the dynamite fuse to the coil so the bomb would explode when the ignition key was turned, and then he left.

Blackwell testified that two days after the assassination he was paid $1,500 by Seay but handed back $800 to buy a used auto.

Governor Shafer Vetoes Controversial Pension Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer vetoed the controversial legislative pension bill Thursday moments after the House and Senate officially had requested him to return it for remedial amendments.

"I have vetoed this legislation, not because I am opposed to helping our legislators achieve better retirement, but on the basis that certain aspects of... (the) bill are unconscionable and contrary to the tenets of sound and good government," Shafer said in a statement.

The governor said he was fully aware that the lawmakers wanted the bill back to remedy its next contentious aspects — as evidenced by unanimous, voice-vote approval of a recall resolution in both chambers. But he added that he had been advised by Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett in a binding formal opinion that it would be unconstitutional to honor the request. Sennett held that the bill had passed "beyond the control" of the General Assembly since it was approved by the 1967 session and the 1968 session was now functioning.

"If possible I would have agreed to the recall," Shafer said. "But this I could not do. I have therefore, strongly urged the leadership and members of the General Assembly to begin work on a new and proper pension bill, I will support and sign a reasonable bill."

Leaders from both parties, and in both houses, joined in sponsorship of the resolution, declaring they wanted the record to show that they desired to correct the points which had drawn the most critical reaction.

"I would hope at some point that the changes will be made and we can pass another pension bill," commented House Majority Leader Lee A. Donald.

son, R-Allegheny, after the veto. "Our only disagreement with the governor is that his veto fails to allow us the opportunity to make the needed corrections."

The bill started out simply to correct an inequity resulting from a $1,200 legislative salary increase enacted by the lawmakers two years ago without a necessary adjustment in the pension system.

Since that time, they have been paying into the retirement fund on a base salary of $7,200 but their retirement benefits were being calculated on their old salary of $6,000.

In the process, however, amendments were added to permit the 16 legislative party officers to enjoy the no-limit benefits applied under existing law to only the House Speaker and Senate President Pro Tempore.

It was this feature that drew most of the public consternation. The legislative leaders acknowledged now that they are agreeable to a limit on their retirement, although they were quick to add the specifics have not been ascertained as yet.

Shafer left Harrisburg for a 10-day-to-two-week vacation in St. Croix, the Virgin Islands, immediately after he vetoed the bill.

Lawmakers on both sides of the aisle acknowledged that his relations with the General Assembly are as strained right now as they have been since he began his first stormy year in office 12 months ago.

Whether it would remain that way was not certain. "It could all blow over during the recess," one leader said. "But the situation's tense right now."

The legislature plans to adjourn this week until March to permit the Constitutional Convention to have free access to the Capitol.

The legislators resented a veto for two primary reasons: They feared the storm surrounding the bill would make it impossible to pass another, less objectionable one this year; and they maintain that Shafer was seeking political advantage by rejecting the measure.

The governor's office conceded Shafer had agreed to support a pension bill, but insisted that he was unaware of the objectionable features incorporated into the measure he received.

Rep. William W. Allen of Warren and Forest Counties, issued a statement Thursday to clarify his position on the controversial pension bill proposed in the legislature as well as the salary bill.

Allen stated he voted against the pension bill as his records will show. The newly-elected representative added that he did vote for the salary bill which would provide a 10 percent increase for the Secretary of Health and the offices of the Capitol.

He added, however, that "we, as members of the House of Representatives, will not receive one cent additional pay from this bill when it is passed."

Allen said the Secretary of Health had not had an increase in salary for the last six years. The Tidoute man concluded by saying "I certainly would not go to Harrisburg and in two months vote for a salary or a pension increase for myself."

Thomas Gannoe (right) describes his latest invention, a device for putting stripes of precious metal onto electrically conductive strip material. Gannoe, manager of product development at Sylvania's parts division in Warren, is explaining the invention to Frank M. Thomas, chief engineer of the parts division. Gannoe received $100 from Sylvania for his invention. It was the second such award he received in 1967, and the 23rd patent award presented to parts division employees during the past year.

Donnelly Named Chairman Of Hoffman Children's Home

The Warren County Commissioners met in brief session yesterday morning to approve two appointments to the Child Welfare Board and elect a chairman of the Hoffman Children's Home.

Named to the child welfare board were Mrs. John Lutz, 11 Central ave., Warren and the Rev. James Dorow, pastor of Saron Lutheran Church, Youngsville.

Dr. David K. Rice was unanimously elected chairman of the Hoffman Home upon motion by Blain M. Mead and a second by Thomas J. Donnelly.

Commissioner Rice said that Donnelly would be spending considerable time at the Rouse Home to organize a more efficient and economic operation of the expanded facility. Rice said he felt Donnelly's experience in the revenue office at Warren State Hospital and in banking more than qualified him to take over this particular phase of county business.

Donnelly expressed his gratitude for the confidence accorded him by his fellow commissioners.

The commissioners met Wednesday with David Hoffman, State Department of Commerce Affairs and Barry Epstein, Warren Area Chamber of Commerce to hear about monies available from the state that would permit increased facilities for industrial expansion other than brick and mortar. Also present were Joseph McAmbley of the Industrial Development Association.

Warren County Commissioners next Tuesday will host a meeting of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Commissioners Association. It is expected that commissioners, chief clerks and solicitors from 14 counties will be represented. The session convenes in the large courtroom at 10 a.m. with lunch at the Blue Manor.

CFK Says Pennsylvania Can Turn Tide for RFK

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A leader of a group seeking to nominate Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for President said Thursday Pennsylvania is the state that can turn the tide for him.

Dr. Martin Shepherd, a New York psychiatrist and co-chairman of Citizens for Kennedy, said a drive will be conducted in 13 Pennsylvania counties to raise signatures for Kennedy. He said if enough signatures are obtained—at least 100 in each of 10 counties—Kennedy's name will appear on the April ballot in Pennsylvania regardless whether Kennedy approves.

Shepherd said his drive is to give Democrats an alternative to President Johnson, expected also to seek re-election.

Shepherd was asked at a news conference what if the name of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., appears on the Pennsylvania ballot. McCarthy also is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

"If McCarthy's name is on the ballot it would split the anti-Johnson vote," said Shepherd, "and we would prefer that it not be. The contest should be head and head between Kennedy and Johnson."

Results of the Pennsylvania preferential primary April 23 is not binding on delegates to the National Democratic convention.

Shepherd said his group was concentrating in Pennsylvania, New Hampshire and South Dakota, noting those states do not require a candidate's permission for his name to appear.

Shepherd said the counties where his group will work for signatures are Berks, Allegheny, Chester, Crawford, Carbon, Lehigh, Philadelphia, Cumberland, Delaware, Westmoreland, Montgomery County, Erie and Lackawanna. He did not say why those counties were singled out.

Shepherd said he feels Kennedy, D-N.Y., and brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, can carry Pennsylvania.

"The voters want an end to the Vietnam war," he said. "A new president could bring peace more easily than the incumbent President. Johnson can't reverse all the decisions he has made."

Between March 4 and April 16, electors may request absentee ballots.

The general election will be held November 5.

Burglars Caught in Act Of Ransacking Station

TITUSVILLE — A service station owner joined forces with the Titusville police department at 3:40 a. m. Wednesday, armed himself when he heard glass breaking in his nearby business place, went to the building and captured two burglar suspects in the act of ransacking the station.

Youth Charged Following Accident

An investigation since Dec. 10 by Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty led to the apprehension of three youths.

Arrested late Wednesday and charged with larceny was Norman Matha, 18, of 311 Lexington ave., Warren and two juveniles, ages 15 and 17. The juveniles, Hegerty said, were referred to the county probation department while Matha made restitution, paid costs and was released.

Hegerty said the arrests stemmed from complaints received on Dec. 10 from Robert Jones, Charles Lyon, Kenneth Knight, and Ann Lutes, all of Clearfield borough, that their garages had been entered and cars ransacked.

Taken, police said, were car keys, spot lights, two tire extinguishers and tools valued at $56. All of the items were recovered according to Hegerty.

Walter Rittenhouse, RD 3, Titusville, immediately summoned police when he heard glass breaking and then went to the building and captured at gunpoint Ronald Rodgers, 23, RD 5, Titusville and George McCommon, 24, of Titusville, inside the building.

Moments later Titusville police arrived at the scene and took into custody Gary E. Nichols, 29, of Titusville, who was in a parked car about 100 yards from the scene where he was acting as lookout.

The trio was taken to Titusville police department and state police at Corry notified. Troopers took the three men into custody and to arraignment before a Union City area peace justice. Nichols and Rodgers were transferred to Crawford County jail in lieu of $1,000 bail and McCommon released on a similar bond.

Although in possession of the loot when captured, the trio failed to get away with anything.

2 Arraigned In Court

Two men, both charged with driving during suspension, appeared before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. for open court arraignment yesterday afternoon.

James Owen Albough of 28 High st., Clearfield, entered a plea of nolo contendere while Ernest Nelson Barr, 116 Pennsylvania ave. E., pleaded guilty as charged.

Two other men waived arraignment through their attorney David W. Swanson. They were Henry Decker, 1419 Pennsylvania ave. W., charged with assault with intent to ravish and Harry Goodmote, Ludlow, driving during suspension.

A fifth man, Leonard Ray Hooper, Hemlock Trailer Court, Warren, charged with driving under the influence, was not in the court room as scheduled.

Six men and one woman are slated for sentencing at 10 a.m. today on various charges.

Charged with Murder
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Alfred Madison, 62, of Pittsburgh was charged with murder Thursday. He was accused of stabbing Maebel Blakey, 41, at her home in the city's East End Wednesday.

Westinghouse Is Cancelling Incentive Trips

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. has responded to President Johnson's plea for reduced overseas travel by cancelling an expense-paid trip to Europe offered as an incentive to dealers.

"We seriously were considering cancelling the French section of the trip before the President's request," said a Westinghouse spokesman said Thursday.

The tour by over 100 dealers was to have stopped in Paris, Rome and Vienna.

Instead the dealers will be treated to a trip within the United States.

"We feel compelled to show support for our government in the effort to strengthen the value of the dollar," said a firm spokesman.

THE SUBJECT OF BOLIVIA, SOUTH AMERICA, will be discussed by Ruth Forest, exchange student from that country now attending Youngsville High School at the Monday evening meeting of the Youngsville Pre-School Mothers Club at 8 o'clock. The second speaker, Vonnle Craft, an American Field Service exchange student from Youngsville who went to Brazil, South America, last summer will tell about her stay there. The committee for the evening is to be comprised of Mrs. Gilbert Darling, Mrs. Thomas Schwanke, Mrs. William Augenstein.

WHY NOT LOOK BEST? asks the 27-year-old author of "Pull Yourself Together or, How To Look Marvelous on Next to Nothing", Barbara Johns Waterston, who by profession is a fashion photographer and is married to the Broadway actor Sam Waterston. Mrs. Waterston says that looking one's best is the same as saying "I care about myself and I want the world to care about me." She goes on to say that organization (everything in its place, and a place for everything) has a lot to do with the well-groomed appearance of celebrities. Well, we all have our moments when we are somewhat less than organized, when nothing is where we think it is, but even so, I have wondered time and time again about those women and girls who parade around town—in the shops, grocery stores, Post Office, the banks, one sees them everywhere—their hair ugly and unappealing in curlers, their figures encased in unflattering tight pants. For what do women dress up, or try to look their best, if it isn't for appearances in public, the chance meeting with someone they perhaps least expected to see? By the time any such woman has appeared here, there and everywhere in the above-mentioned apparel—and finally arranges her hair becomingly, costumes herself appealingly—there really isn't anyone who can feel any admiration at all; the response is more apt to be just one of great relief that at least for a couple of hours in the evening, or whenever, their eyes will no longer have to dwell on the unattractive caricature of a woman they were forced to view for most of the twenty-four hours of the day.

MINIATURES: The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Family Service and Children's Aid Society will be held in the office of the society on Tuesday, January 9th at 1 p.m. Attorney William Hill Jr. will be the speaker at the January 8th meeting of the Literature Department of the Woman's Club. He has chosen "Across America with Edwin Way Teale" as his subject.

Bodamer-Ekdahl Nuptials Held In Titusville Church

The Titusville Methodist Church was the setting of the wedding service in which Diane Bodamer became the bride of LaVerne Ekdahl. The wedding took place on Saturday, December 23, at 2:30 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Bodamer of Titusville and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ekdahl of Chancellers Valley.

Mrs. Betty Streich, organist, provided the music. The Rev. Robert Gerrett officiated in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was gowned in white brocade featuring a scoop neckline and below elbow length sleeves which were trimmed with white fox fur. A Watteau court train was attached to the A-line skirt. Her circular headpiece of white brocade was secured to the triple-tiered veil of bridal illusion. Her bouquet was of white poinsettias and holly.

Mrs. James Bodamer, matron of honor, was dressed in a floor length gown of red brocade with an empire waistline and short sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow. She also carried a bouquet of red poinsettias and holly.

Best man was Earl Ekdahl, brother of the groom, from Dayton, Ohio.

The reception was held in the church parlors. The rehearsal dinner was given at the home of the groom's parents.

Women's Fashions Influenced By What Is Pleasing To Men

By JEAN SPRAY WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — More than ever, women's fashions are influenced by men—not by male designers, or men's clothes necessarily, but by women's need for men in their lives.

Although the three dress houses who opened the New York Couture Group's press week Wednesday took different directions to these ends, they shared certain paths. For example, they expect that:

The angling woman will give up her sharper ways, figuratively speaking. These are being replaced by curves, which are just as dangerous but subtly so. Designers for Originala, Pattula-Jo Copeland, and Rembrandt rounded off their customers nicely with bosoms, belted middles, and burgeoning skirts.

Chains were used to suggest that women will be willing slaves. Ole Borden of Rembrandt put a number of models under chains, locks and keys. For their chase, girls were given plenty of leg room with hemlines high, over the knees, though not quite to the thighs.

Pleated, gathered, and culotte-type skirts are in fashion for action.

Old fashioned romance with ruffles and frothy white bibs tucked into navy and black dresses was Jo Copeland's man-manipulating approach. But she brazenly stated the real name of the game from time to time with "hunting" pink costumes.

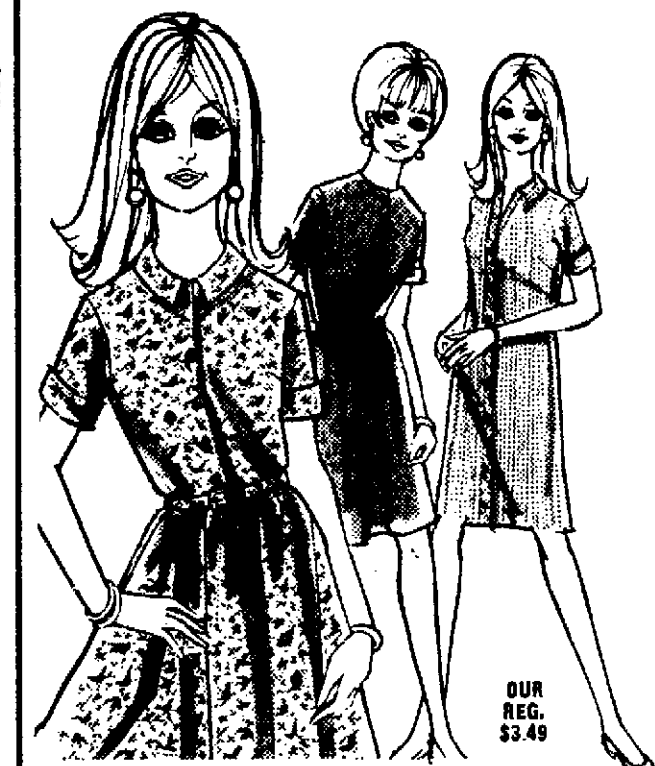

Plunging necklines, and side-slit skirts and body skimming shifts, or puffs of lace in angelic white or wicked black were more designs for designing women.

If men succumb to this year's crop of style wiles, they will learn sadly that keeping their ladies dressed in the manner in which they have been accustomed is extremely expensive.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you published a letter from a girl who wanted to know how to defend herself against a man who got fresh in a self-service elevator. I'm a male who would like some similar advice.

I am a middle-aged man with a lovely wife and family. I am not interested in playing around, but the women who work in this building won't leave me alone. I am well-built, have prematurely gray hair and I look a lot like Cary Grant. On three separate occasions in the past six months I have been propositioned in the elevator. The last time, a woman who is at least 10 years older than I am pushed the emergency stop button between floors and said, "Would you like to kiss me?"

If you think I am putting you on, let me assure you, you have never received a more earnest plea for help in your life. Thanks in advance, Ann.—CLAUSTROPHOBIA

DEAR CLAUD: I don't know what you have, fella, but apparently you have a lot more than you need. My advice is to take the stairs. Not only would it solve your problem but stair-climbing is good for the ol' ticker, according to the heart specialists.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week our neighbor invited several couples to her home for dinner. She served horseradish with the roast beef and my husband raved over it. He said it was just like the horseradish his mother used to make and he asked her how she fixed it. She replied, "I didn't fix it. I BOUGHT it." She then offered to buy him a bottle as "a gift." Nothing more was said but I didn't like her getting THAT friendly. Yesterday the woman brought over a jar of horseradish. I tried every which way to get her to let me pay for it, but she wouldn't tell me how much it cost and she left without the money. When my husband came home I told him about the incident and he said, "Wasn't that sweet of her?" Well, I have another version of her generosity and let my husband know exactly how I felt.

I want to mail the horseradish back. My husband says I am acting like a fool. Please tell me why a woman would insist on giving someone else's husband a jar of horseradish unless she had ulterior motives.—HANDS OFF

DEAR OFF: Good grief, Lady, the neighbor didn't try to give your husband a pair of silk pajamas or a set of matched luggage.

Thank her for the jar of horseradish and ask her where she purchased it so you can buy it from now on. Then bake her a cake as "payment."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Because: (a) alcoholism is increasing and (b) people who have had several drinks are not self-disciplined and (c) every community has some folks who are unemployable because of alcohol and (d) at least half the accidents involve a drinking or a drunken driver, I would like to suggest that the bartenders refuse to serve another drink to a patron who has had too much. How about it?—MISS EXPERIMENT

DEAR MISS: In Illinois (as well as in other states) it is against the law for the bartender to serve liquor to a person who is, according to his judgment, intoxicated. The word "judgment" is the hooker, of course. Some bartenders have better judgment than others.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Q. I was going through my record collection the other day, and wow! There sure are a lot of records I never listen to anymore. I hate to throw them away, but I need space for new ones. What can I do with them?

A. Sounds like a groovy excuse for a party! Why not invite a bunch of girls (boys, too, if you like) over and have them bring their old records. You'll have a ball listening to them, remembering good times you had while they were popular. Then have a trading session. Everyone's sure to find treasures among the rejects, and there are bound to be some left over that nobody wants. Donate those to a worthwhile organization (Mom will be able to suggest names). It's a wonderful opportunity to have a fun party, improve your record collection, help solve the space problem, and help some worthy group, all at the same time!

The bidding:
South West North East
2♠ 3♠ 3♠ Pass
4NT Pass 5♦ Dble.
5NT Pass 6♠ Pass
6♠ Pass Pass Pass

West's activities during the auction served as a beacon light to South that virtually guided the latter safely home in landing his six spade contract.

Bidding three clubs over his opponent's demand opening of two spades was the height of futility for there was virtually no chance of buying the hand. The overcall can only serve to provide the eventual declarer with information which may prove helpful in planning his campaign.

West opened the eight of diamonds against the final contract of six spades, and the ace was played from dummy. A spade was led to the ten and South continued to draw trump by cashing the ace and king.

A small heart was led next from the closed hand and West was obliged to put up the king to prevent dummy from winning a cheap trick with the jack. The diamond return was ruffed by South, who crossed over to the jack of hearts to trump another diamond. The ace, queen, seven of hearts provided a parking place for two clubs and the remaining diamond from dummy and declarer claimed his slam.

The auction had provided South with several valuable clues. West's three club overcall clearly indicated that the club finesse would fail. East's double of five diamonds marked him with the missing strength in that suit. The only other outstanding card was the king of hearts, and South was inclined to place it with West, inasmuch as the latter appeared unlikely to have entered the bidding on club strength alone.

Observe that, if West remains silent during the auction, declarer is apt to make the normal play in hearts of leading the jack from dummy to take the finesse. If he does so, it becomes necessary subsequently to trump a heart in dummy in order to establish the suit, and North's remaining spade is used up in the process. South must now rely on the club finesse and, when this fails, the contract is doomed.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find out what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—A number of small matters, well handled, can add up to a winning day. Begin early to determine just where you wish to go, and why.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Do the things that make you feel that life is worth living. In this way, you can relieve the tensions of the past, become more fit to handle busy days ahead.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—A fine day for artistic, literary and social interests. In all things, capitalize on your finesse. Excellent Mercury influences!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Do not let it be said tomorrow that you "forgot" today. You call is to sensitive understanding, a helpful word that may await, to good things here and NOW.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Why not step forward in more venturesome manner if you have the facts, and your intuition tells you that NOW is the time? If not reckless, you may walk into a wonderful new experience, person or place.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—If there is a fragile conception of values this day, then your picture is NOT in focus. You should be scaling the heights of inspired thinking.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—A new goal in mind? Stop to ascertain first what is really required, then note HOW to achieve it. Consult with other good heads.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—In some one's eyes you are especially bright now, and it is your duty to allay frustrations, build dreams, high hopes. The things you do today will have large bearing on the future.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Benevolence, justice, friendliness, good judgment—these are numbered among your finest traits, and all are stimulated by a fine Jupiter aspect. A top day!

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Emphasize sympathy, affability, sincerity. Don't spend all you've earned monetarily, but double your spending in friendship, wholehearted interest in the good things of life.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Fine aspects encourage clever activity, but don't set up hazards for yourself through rushing, superfluous moves, non-fruitful undertakings.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—The intellectual Piscean should find this period entertaining and instructive; be ready for new beginnings, fresh endeavor. You have SO many good qualities to develop. Start NOW!

YOU BORN TODAY: Your humor and sensitivity are sharp. Your mind can work in several directions at once; you see values before many do. You note flaws, things to avoid—with almost a "sixth sense." You should not let anything make you brood or be unhappy. All the fine things you would do and build can only be accomplished with a hopeful, optimistic mind. Birthdate of: Stephen Decatur, American Naval Commander.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

SPECIAL TIME OF LIFE

The secret of longevity that many present-day oldsters enjoy may be found in their earlier years. Moderation was practiced because they grew up in the prohibition era and when the per capita use of cigarettes had not reached its present staggering proportions.

The majority got more sleep and exercise because there was less electricity and mechanization. Only the healthiest survived because, when today's senior citizens were children, the mortality from infections was high. This might serve as a good example of how the younger generation should live.

Retirement can be pleasurable, provided the change in the mode of living is made gradually by preparing for the transition. Boredom kills. A machine rusts and deteriorates when it is not used and an unoccupied house falls apart. Man must be active to survive and for this reason some type of work is desirable. What is done is not so important as whether man derives satisfaction from doing it. Much depends upon his skills, health, and finances.

But at this time of life, rest is just as important as work and exercise. The proper amount will lead to a minimum of fatigue and wear and tear. It should not be overdone, as too much stiffens the joints and slows circulation.

Diversion also is an essential ingredient of longevity. It makes no difference what the pastime is, so long as it keeps the mind alert and the body active. After 65, it may not be easy to be moderate in eating, drinking, working, playing, smoking, and resting, particularly when the retiree is lonely, and fears losing friends or becoming disabled.

An open mind helps the elderly person see the benefits of his newly-found leisure. Many successful people have gone on to new and better careers after retirement.

TOMORROW: Living Skeletons.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

COUGHS AND SNEEZES

C. B. writes: Please explain the difference between a cough and a sneeze.

REPLY

Sneezes usually are due to tickling or irritation of the nose or throat, producing a forceful expulsion of the nasal and oral contents. Coughs stem from a deeper irritation and require the combined efforts of the diaphragm and chest muscles to expel the material from the bronchi.

CITRIC JUICES

W. S. writes: Which is most healthful—orange, lemon or grapefruit?

REPLY

Orange juice usually heads the list. But all are tasty and rich in vitamin C. We might add that there is more to health than food.

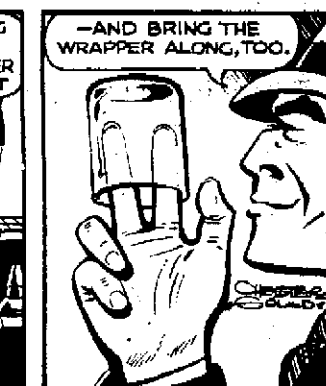

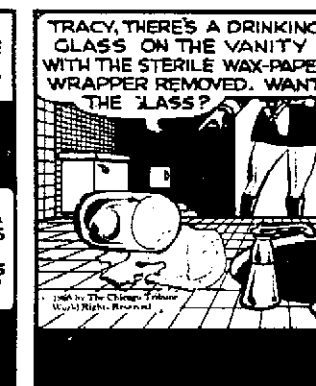

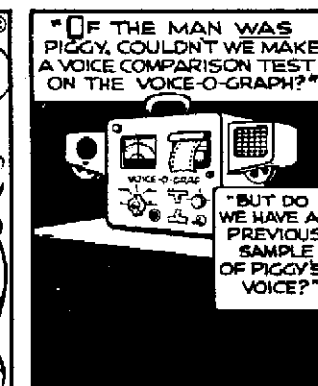

BURPS WITH TEARS

L. M. writes: My indigestion is so bad tears come to my eyes unless I can have a good burp. What can I do?

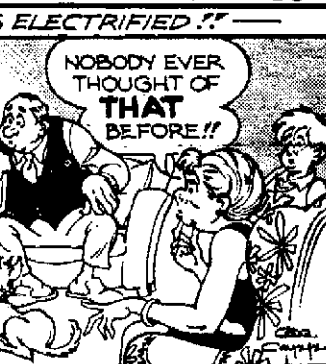

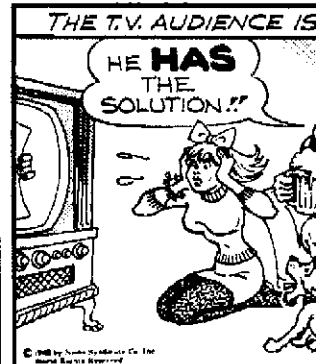

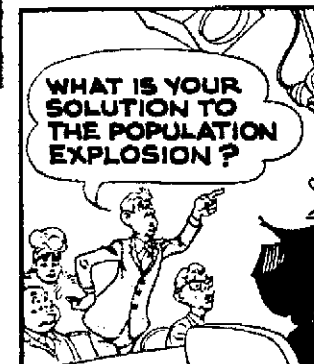

REPLY

Select a good physician and pester him until he succeeds in finding the cause and recommends a cure.

Declared
Sound

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The head of the civil engineering department at Carnegie-Mellon University said Wednesday the Silver Bridge at Point Pleasant, W. Va., was sound.

Dr. Thomas Stelson, who looked over the bridge wreckage, said it collapsed Dec. 15 because it was overloaded. He said he was unable to find any structural defects.

Sofar the bodies of 36 persons killed in the collapse have been recovered. Ten persons are missing.

"The bridge was probably subjected to the greatest load it had ever been under," he said.

He said the structure, crammed with rush-hour traffic when it buckled, was made for trucks bearing 10-ton loads. Trucks are permitted to carry about 30 tons today, he said.

Should Interstate Highway Split Two National Forests?

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who recently won a fight to put a road through a national park, now faces another emotional issue, involving a road.

He will have to decide soon whether to permit road builders to put part of an interstate highway through a remote area separating two national forests.

At stake are about 7,000 acres of the Gore Range-Eagle's Nest Area on the western slope of the Rocky Mountains in Colorado. Conservationists are alarmed at the prospect of the four-lane highway slicing through the area and the impact on wildlife and other natural resources of the area.

Opponents of the road plan have asked: Is violation of a wilderness area set aside for the enjoyment of all the people worth saving 10.6 miles?

By running the road through the area, motorists would travel 10.6 miles less than if they followed the present Route 6 on a trip from Denver westward to Glenwood Springs or Grand Junction and beyond. The proposed interstate segment would start north and west of Dillon, run through a tunnel by Red Buffalo on the edge of wilderness area and then on across the wilderness area.

This would eliminate travel over twisting Route 6 from Dillon and Wheeler over Vail Pass at an elevation of 10,603 feet.

The wilderness area is the boundary between two national forests, White River and Arapaho. The area and the forests are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture's Forest Service.

The Forest Service has been making a study of the impact of the interstate highway on the area. The study is nearing completion and should be forwarded to Washington soon. Then the decision will be up to Freeman.

However, the problem may go to Congress. The area is in the district of Rep. Wayne M. Aspinall, a Democrat who is the chairman of the House Interior committee. Colorado's Republican senators are split on the road.

Sen. Gordon Allott has taken a hands off position, saying it is a matter for the State Highway Department and federal agencies. Sen. Peter H. Dominick believes that the Highway Department should upgrade Route 6 for the interstate route to save money and construction time.

Western economic interests succeeded in 1964 in excluding from a Wilderness Act the 7,000 acres the proposed road would cross. The area was excluded for possible use by a road but the matter was made subject to review by the Secretary of Agriculture. The act set up a National Wilderness System and authorized the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior to review remote areas for possible inclusion in the system.

Trustees Accept Resignation

MILLERSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—The board of trustees of Millersville State College accepted Thursday the resignation of Dr. Robert A. Christie as college president.

The vote was 7 to 1, with one board member absent because of illness. The resignation is effective Aug. 31.

With his resignation, Dr. Christie asked the board to appoint a panel to investigate his conduct, the board's conduct and the administration of the college. The request was ignored.

As the board met in the campus library, some 150 students demonstrated outside the building. Many carried signs asking, "Why?"

The board had requested Christie's resignation last week, but declined to disclose its reasons.

The 44-year-old Christie admitted policy differences with the board when he recently submitted his resignation. He was named to the post 28 months ago.

Christie's resignation was the subject of a lengthy House debate in Harrisburg Wednesday. Rep. Edward Dardaneli, D-Allegheny, charged that it had political overtones.

Dardaneli said no reason was given by the Republican-controlled board of trustees for requesting Christie's resignation. "I'd like to know why?" he asked.

Rep. Harvey L. Nitrauer, R-Lebanon, a board member, denied political implications to the resignation.

"I'm not about to commit myself prior to the board acts," said Nitrauer. "I'll be glad to answer the gentleman's (Dardaneli's) question after the board acts."

Nitrauer was unavailable for comment at Millersville Thursday after the board accepted Christie's resignation. Rep. Marvin Miller, R-Lancaster, declared:

"If the board should accept his (Christie's) resignation, I would hope they will tell Bob Christie why, and if they don't, then they should explain why the resignation was asked for in the first place."

Union Prexy May Quit Council

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A suspended president of a Bricklayers Union local said Thursday he plans to meet with a half dozen area union affiliates to discuss the possibility of quitting the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Council.

The suspended official is John Doyle, president of the 1,000-member Local 1 of the Bricklayers Union. He said the meeting probably may be next week. Doyle and his local were suspended Wednesday by the council for disregarding a council picket line. A council official said a large majority of the 60 members at the meeting voted for the suspension.

The official said Doyle was charged with leading 10 bricklayers through a picket line set up by the council's Delaware County Committee in Upper Darby Township last fall.

He said the picket line was established because the general contractor on an apartment project, Perna Brothers, were nonunion. The bricklayers, however, were employed by Giles Cannon Co., a union sub-contractor.

The council official said the bricklayers local's suspension is for an indefinite period, or until Doyle pledges to honor all officially established picket lines in the future.

Doyle said Thursday he will not make such a pledge.

He said he led his union bricklayers through the picket line because it "was serving no useful purpose in my opinion."

"I don't think the particular committee was achieving the objective it was seeking," Doyle said. "Union men who failed to report to work could have easily been replaced by nonunion men and my union men would have suffered."

USSR Wants Exchange Rates Change

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—The Soviet government appears to have begun exerting public pressure for major changes in the exchange rates among the currencies of Communist nations. The goal appears to be to increase the value of the ruble in terms of the currencies of the Eastern European Communist nations.

Articles calling for modification of the Communist nations' exchange rates have appeared recently close together in two important Soviet economic journals, one of them the organ of the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade. They discuss broad economic issues. The indictment against present Communist nations' exchange rates is put in these terms in the foreign trade ministry's organ: "The existing exchange rates create a false impression about the effectiveness of trade in different goods. If the exchange rates were put in order, many things would begin to be put in their proper places."

The second article, in the second magazine Problems of Economics, discusses the question of prices in trade among members of the council for mutual exchange rates is one of the conditions for the functioning of foreign trade prices, and in particular for taking into account in such prices the conditions of production and the sale of output."

Behind this call for exchange, rate revisions appears to be an objective the Soviet Union has been seeking unsuccessfully for several years. That objective is to persuade its Communist trade partners to pay higher prices for Soviet raw materials and to accept lower prices for machines made in Eastern Europe and sold to the Soviet Union. Earlier, Soviet writers had complained that the Soviet is being exploited by its Communist trade partners who buy first class raw materials from Moscow and deliver inferior machinery in exchange.

Theoretically, trade among the communist nations is carried on at world prices. The Soviet Union claims that world prices for its raw materials are too low and that they are often too high for the machinery it buys from the Communist states, machinery which it thinks is often obsolescent and less productive than machinery which could be purchased from the western states.

In respect to raw materials, the Soviet economists argue that to meet the needs of its Communist trade partners the Soviet Union has to work low grade and high cost deposits of minerals. The Soviet economists also assert that world prices for raw materials are too low because those prices are influenced by the very low wages paid in many raw-material-producing countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America, while Soviet costs must cover the higher wages paid to Soviet miners.

40 et 8 Program Brings Rewards to Local Group

A continuous program initiated by the Warren Voiture, 941, 40 et 8, has brought rewards to the local organization.

For several years, the Voiture has made available a nursing scholarship to an eligible high school student. The first selected by Chairman Don Schuler and his committee, Ralph Brasington and Alfred R. Stubbs was from the Hoffman Children's Home.

Recently, the committee heard from two of their more recent proteges in the nursing profession, one in Mt. Edgecumbe, Alaska and the other at Buffalo General Hospital. Both were graduates of Capital School of Nursing in Washington, D.C.

The 40 et 8 provides recipients of its scholarship with $100 for her first year. If at the end of the term, the young woman still requires financial assistance, she may contact the committee and the help will be continued.

Joyce Johnson writes from Alaska where she is a clinical nurse at the Alaska Native Health Service Hospital. Miss Johnson said this is a branch of Public Health Service concerned with the Bureau of Indian Affairs. The patients are Alaskan natives and in the area where the Warren nurse is located are mostly Indians, the Eskimos more predominate in northern areas.

Miss Johnson said she is living on a tiny island in southeastern Alaska where in contrast the noises of cars, buses and sirens, the sounds are the howling wind, constant rainfall and the swells of the Pacific rolling and gently breaking on the rocks.

Mt. Edgecumbe, the nurse writes, is about five minutes by shore-boat from Sitka, the original Russian Capital of Alaska with a population of about 4,000. Mt. Edgecumbe, she said, was developed as an army base many years back and then as a naval base in World War II at which time there were some 20,000 men stationed there.

Miss Johnson pictured an ideal vacation spot for hunters and fishermen. She related a story of a 61-year-old nurse who wanted a bear skin rug so badly she learned to shoot and actually went out and got her own. Joyce said she was about to be introduced to the art of trapping and expressed hope it would be mink.

In closing the young woman noted that her education made it possible for her to enjoy her new experiences.

Karen Snyder wrote from Buffalo General Hospital to provide a brief account of her activities. Her class went to the hospital for the first time Nov. 15. She said she was in complete uniform and experienced a feeling of pride every time she put it on.

Miss Snyder advised she would be getting grades in a few weeks and will keep the committee informed as to her progress. She is anxious to spend more time on the floor and thanked the 40 et 8 again "for making this possible."

GIDDERS

Assigned To Pentagon

Pvt. Dennis (Barney) Gidders, who was drafted into the Army last October, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gidders of 120 Oak st. He has completed his basic training at Fort Dix, N.J. and has been assigned to the Defense Communications Agency in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. as a computer operator. After his graduation from Warren Area High School in 1963, Gidders attended Kent State University and played minor league baseball.

At its present explosive rate, earth's population will double by the year 2000. The National Geographic says. By A.D. 2800 each earthling would have less than a yard of land; by 3600 the weight of the earth's population would equal that of the earth itself.

JOYCE JOHNSON

it's the little things that make gas heat so great!

The cost, for instance.

There are a lot of great things about Gas heat. You take them for granted. Clean, circulating, whole-house heat seems as natural as . . . fresh air. But the biggest thing about Gas heat is the littleness of the cost—about one-third the cost of electric heat. Maybe the cost of heating your home with Gas doesn't seem like such a big thing to you.

That's because it isn't.

THINK OF ALL THE THINGS YOU CAN DO WITH THE MONEY YOU SAVE. GAS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE.

Bradford Stages a Private War on Poverty

Proof that some worthwhile programs, designed to help those who need help, without benefit of federal handouts is evidenced in the City of Bradford. It is called "Outreach."

The story is told in the December edition of Forward in Erie, the Episcopal Diocesan publication.

The author notes that Bradford is a one-time boom town where fortunes were made when the oil fields were producing copiously. In the mid-1960's, however, the oil fields were much less productive and the city was becoming aware of problems of poverty. Many families were on relief and there was considerable sub-standard housing.

According to the article, it was on a Wednesday afternoon several years ago, that Miss Mary Ann Thompson, director of Christian Education at First Baptist Church, was leaving church after choir practice. She came upon three waifs who told her they were hungry, that their families' relief checks had not arrived. Miss Thompson took them to her home and fed them. Next Wednesday a few more came and were fed and the following Wednesday, still more. Finally the Bradford woman devised a special program for these children—a few games to play, some Bible stories to hear and the afternoon was always climaxed by a good, hot meal provided by the church. In short order, 100 children were coming.

Volunteers were helping and much of the food was being contributed, but the Baptist Church was unable to finance the endeavor.

The problem, the story relates, was presented to the Bradford Council of Churches, which voted to take over the supervision and financial support of the program. A steering committee of interested clergy and laymen was formed, a paid director was hired and another center opened at the Methodist Church. A year later a third center opened at United Presbyterian Church and during this past year, a fourth center was opened at the Episcopal Church. At the same time the Center at United Presbyterian Church became a teen-age center for boys and girls from 13 to 17. The other centers remain for younger children, from age 5 to 12.

Staffs at the centers are composed of volunteers and range from business men to high school students. Many housewives devote one afternoon a week at the centers.

A volunteer dietitian plans the menus and purchases the food—the same for each center. The meal is designed to be not only nourishing but imaginative.

After school at 3 p.m., the children begin to arrive. Games are played until classes start at 4 p.m. There are two teachers to each class and for 30 minutes the class is devoted to religious education. For the last part of the period, teachers and children engage in handicraft projects.

While classes are in session, high school students set tables. Supper is served at 6:15 p.m.

At 6 p.m. the children are dismissed. But the work is not all done. Tables must be cleaned while the kitchen crew washes dishes and cleans the kitchen. In addition two extensions of Outreach have developed. One is a clothing center where good clothing is collected and repaired and then made available to Outreach children needing it.

A second growth is a YWCA-sponsored program for Outreach mothers and pre-school children. This takes place Wednesday mornings. Homemaking skills are taught and already such skills have carried over into various homes.

Basically the program has sought to feed children who are hungry and to demonstrate concern and affection for the underprivileged. It is hoped these children will gain a new vision of life, different from and better than the environment from which they come. Many come from homes without adequate washing facilities and where the family seldom sits down together at a meal.

Now in its fourth year, governmental agencies have offered to take over the financial support of the program, but the Bradford Council of Churches has consistently refused, preferring to keep Outreach independent and voluntary and not subject to bureaucratic difficulties.

The article emphasized that there are no sectarian or creedal distinctions. Two Roman Catholic high school students might instruct at the Methodist Church. The woman who runs the clothing center is a member of the Jewish Synagogue. The man who washes dishes at one of the centers is a design engineer and the delivery man for the Bradford bakery on his Wednesday morning off, sorts and delivers the food to four centers. Many women volunteers could be playing bridge or watching television but instead are combing some girl's hair, helping a child with his spelling lesson or trying to get an underweight little fellow to eat his peas.
